ConCom Water & Sewer Dept. found in violation

By CHARLOTTE COOPER
WILMINGTON Eight wetland violations and a perennial determination for the King's project topped the full agenda of the Conservation Commission Wednesday evening, September 1st.

The Wilmington Water and Sewer Department is responsible for the ongoing wetland violations on the Main Street/Middlesex Ave. project, DEP#344648. A memo was sent from John Keeley, Assistant Director, Planning and Conservation to Mike Woods, Wilmington Water and Sewer Department regarding the violations from the dewatering activities on the project.

"There are ongoing wetland violations related to the dewatering... since that memo, the violations have continued," said John Keeley. He indicated that the dewatering from Adelaide Street is being discharged into the wetland near Rotary Pond. His concern is that the inordinate amount of water entering the wetlands, and even Rotary Pond, could jeopardize the lives of some of the trees.

Once again, The Wilmington Water and Sewer Department is responsible for wetlands violations. This time the area is Bridge Lane Sewer Connection. Under the Determination of Applicability, the Commission required that hay bales be used to control erosion while the project was underway. "There were no hay bales when they did the work. I asked them to clean it up,"

Keeley said. He requested Rob Antico, assistant to Mike Woods, install the hay bales and clean up the area, but as of this meeting, the Department had not complied.

The Department of Public Works is responsible for damaging the wetlands along the Cook Avenue Access Drive. "... an Order of Conditions was issued [to the DPW] allowing a narrow gravel driveway within an easement which wound around a wetland," Keeley said. Apparently when the construction was done, their plans and the Order of Conditions were ignored. "Wetlands were filled, and the driveway is partially outside the recorded easement," Keeley said. He said that the DPW plans on reconstructing the driveway, but the commission will not issue a Certificate of Compliance until the wetland is restored.

New violations on 46 Cunningham Street: Keeley said that the owner of the property is using Conservation land as his own and has disrupted the topsoil by erecting a swingset on it. In addition, dirt, branches and grass have on separate occasions been dumped in wetlands both across from his property and behind his property. "He's cleaned up the [debris], but he's on town land with the swing set. I [requested that] he remove the swingset, restore and reseed the topsoil and let it revegetate itself," Keeley said.

48 McDonald Road's violation has proceeded to the state level. In a letter to the Department of Environmental Protection, Keeley requests assistance with enforcement against a chronic violator of the Massachusetts Wetlands Protection Act (MA General Laws Chapter 131, section 40). "There has been incremental filling of wetlands on this property for several years," Keeley said. The Commission has issued several Enforcement Orders in the past, but to no avail. He indicated that recently a bulldozer cleared vegetation in the area.

The culvert on Salem Street, municipal project DEP#344667, caused sand and silt to be discharged into the wetlands. Keeley requested the aid of the summer stream team to clean it up.

Galante's Gas Station and 10 Wicks Circle violations have been cleaned up, but still have some outstanding issues.

After a lengthy discussion, the Commission voted that Sawmill Brook is a perennial stream. "Indications from the DEP is that we should use the USGS survey

Caterers told to wrap it up

By PAUL HAYES
WILMINGTON - One catering truck owner had his license suspended for a week, and another got off with a warning, during the Board of Health meeting on Tuesday.

Joseph Sahia, owner of Matty's Catering, and Bill Mutchler, owner of Country Catering, each faced disciplinary hearings for the sale of unpackaged, unlabeled "loose foods" from their catering trucks.

The disciplinary hearings were triggered once two "loose food" violations occur within a twelve month period.

Mutchler received a week suspension, lasting until Tuesday September 14, for violations found on April 12 and August 24, 1999.

Sahia was issued a warning, after it was discovered his violations did not occur within a twelve month period. Sahia was cited on July 12, 1997 and August 24, 1999.

Each offense of selling loose food carries a $50 fine.

WHS Tougher new tardiness policy

By PAUL HAYES
WILMINGTON - Get to school by 7:20 a.m., or miss the prom.

A tough new High School tardiness policy carries stiff penalties for students who do not make the opening bell, and is seen by administrators as a means of reducing the number of students who are late for school.

Unlike last year's tardy regulations, which allowed students to accumulate four unexcused tardies before serving detention, the new policy will bar students from participating in extracurricular activity on the day of their first unexcused tardy.

This includes all practices, games, rehearsals, meetings, concerts and dances - including the prom.

High School Principal Ed Woods hopes the new policy will be the cure for rampant tardiness. Last year an average of 60 to 70 High School students were late for school every day.

"You can't run a school like that," Woods said. "When students walk in late they interfere with the learning process."

The new tardy policy was created by the high school's School Advisory Council, a committee of high school teachers, parents, Principal Ed Woods and Vice Principal Peter Lucia, as part of the School Improvement Plan.

The School Committee approved the policy by a four to one vote on June 23.

The new policy also mandates students be signed in by their parents, with Vice Principal Peter Lucia, on their fourth unexcused tardy.

A fifth unexcused tardy will require parents to dole out punishment for further unexcused tardies. The parent, student and an administrator will set up and sign a contract, which will include an agreed upon consequence if the student continues to be late for school.

An example would be that a student who drives to school could be required to take the bus instead.

Woods said the new tardy policy will not only prevent school day interruptions, but would also prepare students for life after high school.

"We're supposed to get students ready for the real world," Woods said. "If you're tardy six or seven times for work, do you think an employer will ignore that?"

TCE plume discovered underneath town center

By PAUL HAYES
WILMINGTON - A plume of Trichloroethylene was discovered in the town center by the Department of Environmental Protection recently.

According to Public Health Director Greg Erickson, the plume is located underneath the intersection of Main Street and Middlesex Avenue.

The size of the plume, the direction it is travelling, and its source have not yet been determined. The DEP is expected to install monitoring wells, and test existing private irrigation wells, to determine the nature of the plume.

The plume was discovered by monitoring wells already in place to track another plume, of MTBE

(a gas additive) that had previously been released in the area.

The MTBE plume originated from a machine shop that occupied 315 Main Street.

Private well testing
The DEP continues to test private wells in the McDonald Road and Kelly Hill areas.

Two of three private wells test-

Teens spark Xmas relief

By PAUL HAYES
WILMINGTON - Christmas may be months away, but for Marissa Bortone the holiday season is already underway.

Bortone, 13 and friend Jen Earls, 13 are in the midst of collecting items for a Kosovo Christmas Donation drive, part of a national effort run by the Christian Reform World Relief Committee (CRWRC).

The CRWRC has requested volunteers to send shoeboxes full of items to the groups Grand Rapids, MI headquarters by Oct. 15, after which the shoeboxes will be distributed to Kosovo refugees.

Bortone heard about the CRWRC relief drive from her mother, who spotted it in a magazine advertisement.

"I was reminded of the problem,"

STOCK OPTIONS AND TAXES

Time was, only the chairman and CEO of a corporation got stock options, but today companies are adding stock options to the compensation package to motivate workers further down the line.

There are two kinds of stock options: incentive stock options and nonqualified stock options. ISOs are not taxed when granted nor when the employee exercises them; held long enough before sale, they may qualify for capital gain rates. But there are Alternative Minimum Tax issues, and tax savings may be lost if the stock price drops. NQSOs, more common, are taxed when exercised.

When to exercise an option? When to sell? There are number-crunching decisions to be made, preferably with professional help. Various strategies can be used to make the most of the options without raising income levels to higher brackets or triggering AMT liability. Vested NQSOs can be given away to trim the employee's taxable estate. ISOs can only be transferred in case of death.

Let us do the number-crunching and advise you at

Making Strides Against Breast Cancer to step off October 2

BOSTON - More than 30,000 men, women and children from throughout the region are expected to join together Sunday, October 3 to fight breast cancer during the American Cancer Society's seventh annual Making Strides Against Breast Cancer, the largest single site breast cancer fundraiser in the nation. This 5.7 mile walk along Boston's Charles River Esplanade will help kick off National Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

Making Strides Against Breast Cancer walkers are expected to raise $2.7 million in pledges. Funds raised will support the American Cancer Society's breast cancer research, education, and service programs for breast cancer patients and their families in Massachusetts. Many walkers participating in Making Strides Against Breast Cancer are themselves touched by personal experiences with breast cancer, or they become involved in honor of family members, friends and co-workers who are battling the disease.

Between 1991 and 1996, breast cancer mortality declined by 21 percent in Massachusetts. For the latest year of date - 1995, 71 percent of all breast cancers were diagnosed in the earliest stage, when the disease is most curable. "This is good news for women in Massachusetts," said Gena Carter-Brockington, M.D., a radiologist and member of the American Cancer Society's Breast Cancer Advisory Group. "Clearly, we are making progress in saving lives from breast cancer. Making Strides Against Breast Cancer generates awareness about the disease, and the funds raised are continuing to help women get the mammograms and support they need. Making Strides gives all of us a chance to demonstrate our resolve to finish the job of wiping out breast cancer. This year, a portion of the dollars raised by Making Strides will be used to fund Tell a Friend, a new American Cancer Society early detection education program. Tell a Friend volunteer callers contact five other women whom they know and encourage them to get a mammogram. This "peer counseling" strategy gives women the motivation and support they need to get screened - and early breast cancer detection can save lives.

Breast cancer, the most common form of cancer among American women, will strike 175,000 U.S.

women this year, including 4,400 from Massachusetts. Eleven hundred Massachusetts women will die of it this year.

Serving as flagship sponsors for the 1999 Making Strides Against Breast Cancer are: BankBoston, The Gillette Company, Tufts Health Plan, Bell Atlantic Mobile. Each flagship has pledged to recruit hundreds of staff members and volunteers from their organizations. In all, the walk comprises nearly 700 corporate teams, 30 hospitals, 100 schools, 25 church groups and 100 busloads of walkers from throughout the region.

The American Society is a nationwide community based voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing the disease, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, advocacy and service. For more information about Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and how to walk or volunteer for Making Strides Against Breast Cancer, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-952-7664, ext 4700 or email Strides_Boston@cancer.org.

Look out for advance-fee loan sharks

WASHINGTON, DC - A new breed of loan shark is preying upon unwary consumers. Most credit scams and specifically, advanced-fee loan sharks, "guarantee" or represent a "high likelihood of success" that the advertiser will be able to get or arrange a loan or other form of credit for a consumer, regardless of the consumer's credit history. These scams differ from legitimate, guaranteed offers of credit in one critical way: they require payments up front, before the lender is identified and the application is completed. Legitimate lenders may require consumers to pay application, appraisal, or credit report fees, but these fees never are required before the lender is identified and the application completed. In addition, the fees generally are made payable to the lender, not the broker or arranger of the supposed "guaranteed" loan or extension of credit.

Legitimate lenders rarely guarantee a loan or extension of credit before evaluating a consumer's credit worthiness. However, there are legitimate guaranteed offers of credit. From example, guaranteed offers of credit cards or other extensions of credit do not require any payments up front for a consumer to accept the offers. These are firm offers of credit that require a consumer to accept the offer; they are advance-fee loans only if they offer the consumer the "opportunity to apply" for credit.

Advertisements that promise loans generally appear in the classified section of newspapers and magazines and on the Internet. Often, the ads feature "900" numbers, which result in charges on your phone bill. Advance-fee loan sharks also are promoted through direct mail and radio and cable TV spots. The appearance of an ad in recognized media outlets - such as your local paper or radio station, does not guarantee the legitimacy of the company behind the ad.

The Federal Trade Commission says you can avoid advance-fee loan sharks. Here's how:

"Don't pay for a promise. It's illegal for companies doing business by phone to promise you a loan and ask you to pay for it before they deliver.

"Ignore any ad - or hang up on any caller who guarantees a loan in exchange for an advance fee. Legitimate lenders never "guarantee" or say that you will receive a loan before you apply, especially if you have had credit or no credit record. "Never give your credit card or bank account numbers, or Social Security number, over the telephone unless you are familiar with the company and know why the information is necessary.

If you have been victimized by an advance-fee loan scam, contact your local consumer protection agency, Better Business Bureau (BBB), or your state Attorney General. ## Letter to the Editor

Amateur historians are needed

Dear Editor:
Thank you for the publicity you gave the Tewksbury Historical Society's forthcoming photo show, "A View of Tewksbury, Yesterday and Today," in your August 25 edition.

Many folks have already contributed pictures and documents for this exhibit and we particularly wish to extend special thanks to Elinor Haines and Francis L. "Taddy" Brown. The historical part of the exhibit would not have been possible without their cooperation and generosity.

The exhibit will open in the History Room of the Tewksbury Public Library on Monday, September 27 at 6:30 p.m. and we hope it will stimulate more interest in building our archives. We welcome members of the community who have knowledge of the historical development, or pictures of previous structures that helped establish our town, to come forward and assist us in compiling an accurate history of Tewksbury. Amateur historians are needed.

Sincerely,
Sandra Mouser and
David Marours

Question: When is an abutter not an abutter?

Dear Editor:
Again we ask that the Tewksbury Board of Appeals examine the bylaws. The recent information brought to my attention by neighbors and the Town Crier confirms that all is not well in Tewksbury Town Government.

First I ask:
Question: When is an abutter not an abutter?

Reference:
An application by the California Products Corporation, to construct a new paint factory in Tewksbury, along Route 93 and bordering the B&M tract only a single family home on Vale Street was asked if there was any objection. Later the Planning Board by a vote of 3-2 approved the application.

By this vote the Town will now have a full fledged paint factory with all its ramifications. The project was not well advertised to the townspeople, so local residents would know how the project came about or how it would affect them. The initial permit request was for a storage facility only. Yet the board gave a full fledged permit for a factory.

From the town's zoning book on procedures it reads, on page C-3 of the appendix that:

"All parties in interest shall be notified and that among others, abutters, abutters to abutters and all owners of land within 300 feet of the property land of the premises which are subjects of the petition or application."

Yet only a single person was informed, living further away from the project center than this writer.

It is at least this homeowner's contention that he was never notified. The following is my understanding:

1. My property is an abutter to an abutter by the B&M rail tract as indicated by my survey plan.

2. The new construction also requires new construction to the railroad, hence I am indeed an abutter to an abutter of the project initiated by the California Paint Co.

Were the townspeople alerted to a lesser known fact that there is:
No access from Tewksbury roads with a fire truck or emergency equipment.

No tax advantage that will lessen the tax burden to the townspeople. No information as to the danger to residential areas of a fire in a paint factory.

No information of the fact that the land was a dead parcel created by the towns of Andover and Tewksbury, that could have been better used as open land in the area.

It is my wish that the Planning Board again hold a hearing on this project in order to properly advise on all details of the new paint factory in town.

However, since the town has neglected to fully inform the townspeople about this project, a group of concerned people is now considering legal action to make the town fulfill its obligations to its people.

With the 176 people in Andover and an expected similar number from Tewksbury, it is now under consideration to hire a competent lawyer and to file a brief in court. All the townspeople should be alerted to this matter since this is something for all townspeople to be concerned about.

Sincerely yours,
Christian S. Bolgen

Ecumenical Vacation Bible School was a tremendous success

Dear Editor:
During the week of 16-20 August 1999, the word "Eureka" resounded throughout the halls of Saint William's School building all day, every day. Eureka means, "I have found the treasure." The children of Treasure Hunt Bible Adventure used the Bible as their map and found Jesus to be the treasure!

One hundred and seventy-five children were serviced by this program as registered students and junior staff. An additional 40 volunteers worked together like a well oiled machine to allow students to participate in a daily sing and play morning program followed through visits to Bible Exploration, the Craft Cave, Chadder Chipmunk's Adventure Video Theater, Jungle Games and of course Treasure Treats. This was the first time that Tewksbury churches have united to present an Ecumenical Vacation Bible School for the young people of our community. It was a tremendous success and it allowed me to meet many wonderful residents whom I had not known previously. I hope that the friendships that were formed within the staff as well as the students will last a very long time.

I also wish to thank the many corporate and community sponsors of Treasure Hunt Bible Adventure. The following corporations and groups generously donated to the program by supplying paper goods, money, foods, decorations, etc.:

St. William's Men's Club
St. William's Coffee and Donuts Committee
Knights of Columbus Council #4336, Tewksbury

Riverside Assembly of God, Methuen
Elliot Presbyterian, Lowell
Holy Trinity, Lowell
Wilmington Ecumenical Vacation Bible School

99 Restaurant and Pubs
Mahoney's Garden Center, Tewksbury

Dunkin Donuts, Main Street
Hostess, Lawrence
Frito Lay, Wilmington
Drake, Methuen
Middle East, Methuen
Walmart, Tewksbury
Market Basket, Tewksbury
Burger King, Main St., Tewksbury

McDonalds, Main St., Tewksbury
TD Waffles, Tewksbury
More than $364 was raised during the week through free will offerings of daily pocket change and a collection at the closing program. The offering money combined with surplus operating funds will be forwarded to the Tewksbury Community Pantry and is expected to exceed $400.00.

Through Operation Kid to Kid, approximately 150 Spanish translations of the Gospel of John will be distributed in needy Spanish speaking nations. Each book includes a special gift bookmark crafted by a VBS student.

As the director of Treasure Hunt Bible Adventure, I wish to thank all the staff and the families who participated in and supported this program. I am proud to be a part of such a warm and caring community.

Getting dirty has never been so much fun Watershed cleanup Saturday, September 18

WILMINGTON - The annual Wilmington Watershed Cleanup is being held in conjunction with the Massachusetts Coastal Zone Management Coastsweep '99 on Saturday, September 18. The cleanup is sponsored by the Headwaters Stream Team and co-sponsored by the Massachusetts Coastal Zone Management, the Wilmington Conservation Commission, the Wilmington League of Women Voters, and the Ipswich River Watershed Association.

Volunteers should report to the Fourth of July Headquarters starting at 9 a.m. to register and to choose a work team and location. There will be locations appropriate for children to participate with their parent(s). Gloves and tally sheets will be provided, but please wear appropriate work clothing and boots. Volunteers work at their own risk.

Target sites identified so far include the Ipswich River (Mill Brook) behind Wilmington High School; Lubbers Brook at Phillips Avenue; the Old Middlesex Canal from Lubbers Brook to the end of the Fred Cain Bridge; the neighborhood park at Crest and Michigan Avenues; Town Park; Martins Brook on Salem Street; and the Blanchard Road Conservation Land, where some trail trimming and sign painting will also be on the agenda. If you know of a site in your neighborhood or to recommend another area in need of cleaning, contact Suzanne Sullivan at (978) 694-9043.

Donuts and coffee donated by the Lowell Street Dunkin' Donuts along with other refreshments and prizes will be available.

The Headwaters Stream Team looks forward to spending the day with other citizens who take pride in their community. Last year volunteers removed seven tons of trash in three hours. We anticipate the same success this year, so go on out, take the family, get dirty and have some fun while making a positive contribution to your community!

New regulations

Vaccinations required before entering school

There's more to remember when preparing the kids for the start of school this year — additional vaccinations.

Effective immediately, all students entering preschool, kindergarten and seventh grade must be vaccinated against chicken pox. The seventh-graders must also be inoculated against hepatitis B, tetanus and diphtheria before they can go to class.

The new regulations increase the already lengthy list of required vaccinations for Massachusetts children, in public, private and parochial schools. All kindergartners in the state must now prove they have been vaccinated against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, polio, mumps, measles, rubella, hepatitis B and chicken pox.

With some schools starting up this week — Springfield, for example, opened its classroom doors Monday — parents are running out of time.

Unless parents can prove their children have had their shots, or already had chicken pox, the children will likely be sent home from school.

Mary Zamorski, school nursing supervisor in Springfield, had been bracing for the worst and figured she would be confronted with plenty of children who never got the required vaccines.

But so far, so good, she said Monday as school began for the district's 25,000 students.

However, kindergartners don't begin classes until after Labor Day, and she still doesn't know how many of them haven't received their shots.

Although the extra vaccines create additional paperwork and administrative headaches, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," she said.

Parents of children who still need vaccinations should set up appointments with their physicians immediately, health officials said. Many communities offer school-based clinics to provide the shots, which the state makes available free of charge.

The chicken pox vaccine requires only one shot, unless the recipient is 13 or older, in which case two are needed.

The hepatitis B vaccine is more complicated, with a series of three shots spanning a minimum of five months.

Many schools have been calling the Department of Public Health, wondering what to do if a pupil has had only part of the hepatitis B series.

If the parents can show the child has been given one shot and has scheduled subsequent appointments, the child is typically allowed to enter school, said Katherine Yih, epidemiology coordinator at the Massachusetts Immunization Program, a division of the DPH.

"Otherwise, they'd be missing six months of school," she said.

Federal health officials now recommend chicken pox vaccinations for the highly contagious disease, which affects some 4 million Americans — most of them children — every year. An estimated 100 people died each year from 1990 to 1994, before the vaccination became available, from complications such as pneumonia or blood infections, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Lower your cholesterol with three easy life-style changes

WILMINGTON - The glut of reports about blood cholesterol may be enough to clog your arteries, but three simple lifestyle changes are all most people need to keep their cholesterol in check.

"There have been many claims about food and vitamins that may act as miracle cures for cholesterol," said Sandra Carlson, clinical education specialist for VNA North Shore. "Watching what you eat, exercising and quitting smoking are time-tested ways to lower cholesterol."

VNA North Shore, a VNA Care Network agency, brings nursing, physical, occupation and speech therapy, home health aide services and social work into people's homes. VNA North Shore's specialty programs include home based cardiac disease management, which helps patients recovering at home from cardiac bypass and valve replacement surgery, congestive heart failure, heart attack and other cardiac problems.

According to Deborah Donahue, RN and cardiac nurse specialist for VNA North Shore, individuals with a total cholesterol level of 240 or higher are considered to have high cholesterol, which increases your chances for coronary heart disease and may lead to a heart attack.

A total cholesterol level is determined by taking readings of two kinds of cholesterol in the blood, LDL and HDL cholesterol. Large amounts of LDL cholesterol can clog arteries and stop the flow of blood to the heart, which can lead to a heart attack. However, a high HDL cholesterol level is good. HDL cholesterol is believed to remove excess cholesterol, which reduces the chance of arteries becoming clogged.

"An easy way to remember the difference between the two types of cholesterol is 'H' is for health and 'L' is for life-threatening," said

Donahue.

VNA North Shore's cardiac disease management staff recommends a combination of life style changes for keeping cholesterol in check. Diet, exercise and a smoke free environment all contribute to better health.

Cholesterol is found in foods that come from animals such as meats, poultry, fish, seafood and dairy products. By monitoring what and how much of these foods you eat, you can control your average daily cholesterol intake, which should generally be less than 300 milligrams.

When making selections, opt for lean meats, fish or skinless poultry instead of red meats and limit your intake of eggs to three or fewer per week. Eat more fruits, vegetables and whole grains. Use low fat or skim dairy items instead of products containing whole milk. Eat more fiber rich foods like oats, dark bread and apples. Fiber helps reduce cholesterol levels and makes you feel full.

Another important change is adding exercise to your day. For some people, exercise can increase HDL or good cholesterol. Even activities such as walking, gardening, yard work, housework and dancing, if done regularly, can have an affect.

If you smoke, try to quit. Smoking lowers HDL or good cholesterol. Smoking cessation programs and support groups are widely available. For more information on these programs in Cape Ann/North Shore, contact VNA North Shore's Tobacco Education Coordinator Joan Schaefer at 978-283-2020, ext. 2429 and in Haverhill/Newburyport contact Laura Beal, VNA North Shore's smoking cessation coordinator at 978-521-6103. For information in other Massachusetts communities contact the Massachusetts Tobacco Control Program Quiltline at 1-800-TRY-TO-STOP.

Consult your doctor about your cholesterol levels and an individual treatment plan, if needed. It is recommended that individuals 20 or older and children over two years old with a family history of heart disease or high cholesterol before age 55, get their cholesterol levels checked every five years.

VNA North Shore, established in 1908, is a VNA Care Network agency. In addition to cardiac disease management, VNA North Shore offers comprehensive home health care and wellness programs including wound care, joint replacement therapy, diabetes care, intravenous therapy, HIV/AIDS care, flu immunizations, and breast and cervical cancer screenings.

Stec was one of 1,200 workers laid off in February by the medical center located in Stoneham. The day after winning the TV raffle, Stec shared the news with The Career Place staff that he found new employment as an office manager for Celadon Security Service, Inc. in Lynn.

The Career Place received an Emergency Assistance Grant to assist the workers. The funds are part of a $2 million grant distributed through the corporation for Business, Work and Learning (CBWL), Employment Resources, Inc. (ERI), and the Metro North Regional Employment Board (REB). The grant is part of a $19 million award to Massachusetts announced in May by Vice President Al Gore and Labor Secretary Alexis Herman.

The funds are administered by ERI, with the Career Place acting as the lead career center, where approximately 350 individuals will be served over an 18 month period. Occupational skills training, basic education training and short term computer skills training are available for the dislocated workers.

The Career Place offers area job seekers and employers access to the many tools they need to gain comprehensive employment services. The center offers a variety of free job strategy workshops such as resume preparation and critique, interviewing skills, basic computer skills, and Internet job search. Job seekers also have access to computers, printers, fax machines, and copiers, as well as a wide variety of reference materials located in the center's state-of-the-art Career Resource Library.

Caterers told to wrap it up

 sale of loose foods from catering trucks, because food left out in the open and exposed to several customers could carry and lead to the spread of germs and bacteria.

However, the loose interpretation of state regulations by each town leaves a patchwork of varying regulations for each catering truck owner to decipher.

According to Mutchler, caterers in neighboring towns including Woburn routinely sold pizza, meat-balls, and other loose items that are prohibited in Wilmington.

To clear up any misunderstandings, Mutchler requested the town create catering truck guidelines, a set of regulations governing what caterers could and could not do in Wilmington.

The Board of Health accepted the idea, and the regulations will be drafted by Assistant Health Director Shelly Delgenio.

Mutchler and Sahia have each made several changes to their catering trucks, to meet the town and state catering regulations.

Mutchler and Sahia each eliminated self serve steam trays, and now individually wrap all steam tray items, a process that adds an extra two hours to their morning preparations.

In addition, at the request of the town Mutchler added a sink, to sanitize his hands while serving food.

He has also eliminated fried chicken, hamburgers and pizza, not allowed by the town under state regulations. However, the town does allow the sale of hot dogs and sausage, two items exempt from state regulations.

"I've carefully crafted a truck that will make money," Sahia said. "But will also go by the law."

However, Health Director Greg Erickson said a caterer could apply to the Board of Health for operation of a steam table, if the caterer has displayed a perfect health and safety record.

The town currently allows one catering company, Carl's Catering, to operate a steam tray.

"There's no guarantee the Board will act in your favor," Erickson said. "But you have that right."

However, the state is expected to adopt the more stringent Federal Food Code Jan. 1, 2000, which could outlaw all steam trays, rendering the point moot, Erickson said.

TCE plume discovered underneath town center

 ed in the Kelly Hill area received "hits," showing significant levels of contaminants.

Ten micrograms of PCE were found at 10 Grand Ave., double the minimum reportable amount according to DEP guidelines; and 40 micrograms of MTBE were detected at 23 Carter Ln., which is below the minimum reportable amount of 70 micrograms, but still a significant reading, Erickson said.

Contaminants were all below reportable levels in five wells tested in the McDonald Road area, three on Oak Street, one on Royal Street and one on Curtis Street.

Erickson urged residents living in the Kelly Hill and McDonald Road areas, who had private wells, to get their wells tested. The tests provide the town with data, vital to ongoing investigations into both areas, Erickson said.

"It's so important," said Board of Health chair Dr. James Ficociello.

129 Food Mart
 The Board of Health revoked 129 Food Mart's frozen food license, for repeated violations of frozen food regulations.

According to Greg Erickson, 129 Food Mart have not tested their soft serve ice cream machine within the last nine months. The machine, installed in 1996, is required to be tested once per month.

The company was issued a $50 fine on Aug. 24.

129 Food Mart will not be able to regain their license until the fine is paid, it applies for a new frozen food application, and appears before the Board of Health.

In addition, the company will continue to be assessed daily fines until all fees are paid and a new applications submitted.

Although 129 Food Mart has not exceeded maximum bacteria levels, reported levels have been extremely high.

128 Collision Center
 Representatives of 128 Collision Center and the town will meet at Middlesex District Court in Woburn on Sept. 20.

The town will continue to seek damages from 128 Collision Center. The town has documented a paint smell emitting from the company onto an adjacent neighborhood, despite a town order to abate a nuisance.

The two sides will revisit a motion to dismiss the charges, which was suspended during a failed attempt for both sides to come to a resolution.

Erickson expects a trial date to be set at the Sept. 20 meeting, barring the unlikely situation that the judge accepts the motion to dismiss all charges.

 lems in Kosovo, and I just wanted to help," Bortone said, "and I thought it would be a good way to start off the school year."

Bortone and Earls, both eighth grade students at the West

Intermediate School, have enlisted the help of their former teacher Lillian Hupper, and newly hired assistant principal Mary Ashburn.

The shoeboxes are filled according to CRWRC guidelines, which require each box to include a pair of gloves or mittens, a scarf or earmuffs, a box of crayons or a marker, a coloring book or a pad of paper, a small unbreakable toy not requiring batteries, a picture book and a $10 check for shipping.

Bartone and Earls' giving spirit it has become as contagious as a fall flu, and has incited several local businesses to pitch in and make the relief drive a success.

Payless Shoestore will donate shoeboxes, OSCO and CVS will donate some items, and Lahey Clinic has agreed to pay for the shipping costs.

Items can be brought to the West Intermediate School, 22 Carter Lane, which will serve as the central drop-off location. The deadline for donations is Oct. 1, in order to give the donations time to be properly packaged and sent to Michigan.

 maps and groundwater flow [to help with a determination]," Keeley said. The proposed project on 22 Mill Road will need to take that into consideration when making their building plans.

Eugene Dussault, owner of the property at 14R Concord St., came for a Request for Determination of Applicability for a deck that was already built without one. "I think the deck is within the 25 foot nobuild zone," Keeley said.

"The deck has been there for 3 1/2 years," Dussault said. He indicated that he was only going by what the developer told him to do, but the original plans submitted to the Commission didn't show a deck. The Commission chose to have a site visit on the 11th to determine how to proceed.

Patch's Pond Lane's addition and Blueberry Lane's addition were approved. The Notice of Intent public hearing on the construction of a house on 152 Faulkner Ave. was closed. "The house still does not meet our setback policies," James Morris, Chairman of the Conservation Commission said. The plans were slightly revised, but the footprint of the house still did not fit the lot, according to the Commission. A determination/decision will not be made until the Commission's next meeting.

Saturday in Tewks.

Glass etching will reduce auto theft

Sponsored by Tewksbury police

TEWKSBURY - The Governor's Auto Theft Strike Force and the Tewksbury Police Department will hold "Auto Etching Day" combined with "The Watch Your Car Program" in a joint effort to reduce auto theft.

The program "Auto Etching Day" is being sponsored by both the Mass. State Police and the Tewksbury Police Dept. the purpose will be to mark the glass windows of automobiles and small trucks to make them "unwanted" by thieves.

The event will be held at Tewksbury Police Headquarters, 918 Main Street Saturday, September 11 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The chemical process of etching involve using acid that reacts only to the glass. Etching all windows, sun roofs and t-tops of the vehicle, makes it less wanted by car thieves. The vehicles identification number (VIN) on vehicles serves like a fingerprint for the vehicle and this number is etched on all your vehicle's windows.

The actual etching is small and does not mark or deface the windows, but is quickly noticed by a would-be car thief. Police are enthusiastic about this approach to combat auto theft, etching is a proven deterrent technique that works.

The fee for the vehicle etching is $10 cash per vehicle and most vehicle owners will shortly thereafter realize the value of the etching program when you present the etching certificate to your insurance company for up to a 15 percent savings on your comprehensive auto insurance. The whole process should take only 10-15 minutes once started, no appointment is necessary and the etching will be done on a first come, first served basis.

On May 31, 1997 they held the first "Auto Etching Day" and 208 vehicles were etched during the eight hour day; they hope that September 11 will be even more successful.

Lahey Clinic tops the ticket

BURLINGTON - Lahey Clinic is ranked among the country's top medical institutions in three categories in US News and World Report's list of "America's Best Hospitals." Lahey specialties cited are cardiology and heart surgery, digestive tract, and respiratory disorders which were all ranked among the top 50 in the nation. The rankings are based on reputation, mortality rates and technology.

"We are proud to have our excellence recognized," said John A. Libertino, MD, CEO of Lahey Clinic. "The members of our cardiology, heart surgery, pulmonary, gastroenterology, general surgery and colorectal surgery programs are to be congratulated."

Lahey's cardiac surgery program, which was ranked 21st in the nation, was also highly ranked by Healthcare Report Cards (www.healthcarereportcards.com) and by American's Health Network Mercury Awards (www.ahn.com). With more than 800 cardiac surgery procedures performed annually, Lahey's cardiovascular service is one of the largest in the Boston area, and its mortality rates are among the lowest in New England and nationwide.

Earlier this year, in a survey of WILMINGTON - Local Realtor, Tricia A. Gass, West Real Estate, received her Realtor pin from the Eastern Middlesex Board of Realtors President, Linda Covino at the association's recent business meeting.

318 top cancer specialists for women, Good Housekeeping magazine named three members of Lahey's department of Colon and Rectal Surgery as top doctors in their field. And, in Boston Magazine's list of 300 "Top Doctors" in the Boston area, eight Lahey doctors, including John A. Libertino, MD, chair of Lahey's Department of Urology, were chosen as those most respected by their peers nationwide.

Tewksbury Senior Topics

TEWKSBURY - The seniors will hold their fall giant yard sale and senior version of the Antique Roadshow at the Tewksbury Senior Center Saturday, September 11 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Other features will include a bake sale table, luncheon specials and those many treasure tables of yard sale items!

Our appraisers Arthur Bergeron and Joe Bayles will also be present from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. to check over those special items that you always wanted to know about. If you have an item to be appraised, be sure to obtain a number when you arrive at the Senior Center. This service is being offered free of charge. However, the Friends of the Elderly will gladly accept donations for the Senior Center Building Fund. We thank our patrons and especially our appraisers for their generosity in volunteering their services for the benefit of our building fund.

Town Homecoming activities will also be taking place across the street from the Senior Center during this weekend on the grounds of the Tewksbury Hospital. Why not stop by both places!

Football team hopes to be a contender, not pretender

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Is the year for the Wilmington High football team?

According to head coach Bob Almeida it could be.

Coming off its 8-3 season and emotional Thanksgiving morning victory over Tewksbury, this year's Wildcats return a very strong team with an explosive offense. The big question remains, can the defense stop the opposition so the offense can stay on the field and chew up the clock?

"Winning the league title is and has always been our number one goal," said Almeida. "If the defense can do what we think it can do I'm expecting to be in a position (towards the end of the season) to have a chance (for the league title). But this year the league is the most balanced its been since I've been here.

"Every team can come out and beat you on any day, and we learned our lesson last year against Pentucket. If we don't come out with our task in hand every game, then we will be beaten."

Wilmington lost a solid core of players including lineman Eric Hiltz who went off to Division I University of Connecticut program, running back Mike Gennetti, tight end Dave DeAmato and linemen Kevin Finnerty, Ken Branley and Brian Shea. However, they have four running backs who arguably are the best foursome in the league, including Eric Banda, who is also arguably the best player in the league.

"There's no question he's the guy for us," said Almeida. "We feel that defensively we have two tack-

First encounter for girls soccer is a big rematch

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

With ten seniors who have just about three years of experience, it wouldn't be foolish to say that this is the year for the Wilmington High Girls soccer team. But with a talented group of players right behind them, especially the junior and the new incoming freshmen core, perhaps success for this program started to groom officially last year when the team went deeper than it has over the years in the Division 3 North Tournament.

Be that as it may, Sue Hendee's team has a lot coming back. But, several big questions loom here in the pre-season: Who can replace Lisa Dellascio and Amanda Lojek, two players who were the heart-and-sole of the program over the last few years; and, will this be the year for these 10 seniors before they exit stage left?

"I think these kids are starting to realize that this is it," said Hendee. "We have ten seniors on this team who have to be a take charge group. They are working very hard now, so I'm pleased."

Over the last few years this team has battled injuries, as well as inconsistencies. Although they have indeed made it to the state tournament in each of the last four seasons, Hendee hopes that her team has a seed for the tournament much earlier this fall season.

"I'm expecting a lot of things (this season)," said the veteran coach. "I told the team I'd be disappointed if we finished lower than third in the league. Every year it seems that we squeak into the tournament, but I don't want anywhere remotely close to that happening again this year. I want more than that and I think the kids do too."

Last year Wilmington finished the regular season at 7-4, before winning its first two playoff games. It was then in the third game, against league rival North Reading, when the team lost 2-0 on two late goals. That gave them a little taste of what they could accomplish, hopefully this year will bring more of that success.

"I'm very fortunate as a coach that I have many players who are

WHS Boys Soccer Preview Two-time North Champs to open season on Friday

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Gone are 14 players from the past two years of when the Wilmington High Boys soccer team captured two Division 3 North Championships, before losing in both the state championship game in '97, and then the Eastern Mass. game in '98.

Several players from those two teams remain, but this year's squad might not have those high expectations, but there remains some talent, but its inexperienced talent for the most part.

"We're not thinking about it (right now)," answered Scanlon about returning to the state finalist game. "We can conceivably make the tournament, there are some teams who we should beat. But we play three tough teams twice (in our first six games) to open the season with North Reading, Masconomet and Lynnfield, so that should be a real shakedown."

Wilmington, which finished last season at 17-6-2, winning the Division 3 North Championship over Weston, 2-1, before losing the heartbreaking 2-1 loss to Medway at the Eastern Mass final, opens its season on Friday at 5:00 p.m. (although it might be moved) at North Reading High against what Scanlon calls a "sleeper team." But wasn't Wilmington a sleeper team the past two seasons?

"We lost 14 players with 13 graduating and one transferring. So basically its a brand new team," said Scanlon. "But some of the players like (Jim) Rourke, (Adam) Jensen all played in the tournament last year so they have some good experience."

Scanlon said that his team has played five scrimmages thus far, looking good at times and looking poorly at times. He says that he will use his same diamond set-up, with two forwards and one of his halfbacks giving help when Wilmington has the ball. Gone are the go-to scorers like Justin Vallas and Dennis Ingram, so this team will look to spread the scoring out,

Nee's team digging for success Brand new Volleyball squad looks for right mix

By DAVID FLYNN
Sports Correspondent

Two years ago, Wilmington girls head volleyball coach Mike Nee led his team to the North Shore Volleyball League Championship. Two seasons later, not one single player remains from that team.

"(This season) we are trying to teach a group of girls how to achieve that same chemistry," said Nee.

The Wilmington girls have high expectations and hope to reach the playoffs after missing them last season by two games with an 8-12 record.

With only four players returning from last year's squad, they are going to have to rely on grit, hard work, continuous improvement to reach their goals.

According to Nee, if his team plays as big as his hearts have shown they can be, his team could prove to be a threat. However, if a thin roster was not enough, none of the members of the 11 player roster has ever played together in a varsity game.

"They have not played together ever," said Nee, "but I think they will play fine once they learn to work as a group. I have no doubt once they play together, they will click."

Nee will look to senior tri-captain Alicia Longo to be the team's backbone. Playing in a 5-1 offense, Longo will be the designated setter.

"(Longo)" attacks the ball so well," said Nee, who also expects Nicole Silva to battle Longo for playing time. "She has all the skills.

Along with Longo, senior tri-captain Meghan Cahill (backrow defense), senior Daniele Bailot

(blocker), and senior Sara Lund (middle hitter) are expected to add

We can expect a lot more this fall season

FROM THE PRESS BOX

JAMIE POTE

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

When I did this column last year at this time, to be honest I really didn't know what to expect from the Wilmington and Tewksbury High School sports teams. I figured that the Wilmington football team would have a winning record, and I assumed both soccer teams would, as well as the golf team. I didn't know what to come out from the field hockey, volleyball and cross country teams. In Tewksbury, I was up in the air about the football, golf, both soccer teams and the volleyball team, and I knew that the girls cross country team would be strong and so would the field hockey team.

So do I actually know what should come about this fall season? Well you can never go 10-for-10 in predictions but I think this year I have a better grasp. OK so let's get it a shot, shall we?

We'll turn to Tewksbury sports first. In doing these previews, cross country coach Bob MacDougall expects a strong season from his girls (what else is new?) and hopes that his boys team can keep their spirits high and come together at the end of the season. It's pretty amazing to think that the girls program has won the Merrimack Valley Conference every year since 1988 with the exception of 1989. And with runners like Kerri Aherne and Shelly Bacigalupo, there's no reason why this team won't keep that streak to 11-of-the-last-12-years. My prediction: girls, winning season; boys: around .500.

Field hockey coach Pat Ryser really doesn't know what to expect from her team. She lost a lot of talent, but still has some very good speed with Laura Petros and Jenna Vannah, and solid defense with co-captains Alyssa Bordonaro and Diana Gangemi. What's great about this team is this has to be one of the first times you see the co-captains, as defenders, and one is a senior and one is a junior. My prediction: over .500, will get into the state tournament.

Both soccer teams have struggled over the last few seasons, and to be honest it's very hard to predict how either team will do. Boys head coach Steve Levine has commented that he is worried that his team lacks the fire power, enthusiasm and the numbers to increase on last year's two win season. But then again as Jeff Nazzaro says in his preview of the team, that could just be Levine yakking away.

As for the Girls, they lost arguably the best player that's ever put on a uniform for their program in Nikki Venuti, the Town Crier's 1998 Female Athlete of the Year. She has taken her cleats to the UMass-Amherst program, and left behind a team filled with athletes. This team has just missed the tournament over the last few years, but if you look at this year's line-up, almost the entire roster consists of players who do very well in other sports. They had a lot of speed with Racheal O'Brien, Susie Scott, Melinda Monaco, Jess Breslin, Lindsey Orpen, while, they have several other players such as Kerry Jenkins, Jill Wittham and Emma DelloRusso who should complement the speed very well.

The team also has two very good young athletes who are vying for the goalie's position and that's Rachel Burke, a sophomore three-sport player who has done very well in softball and basketball and also played terrific in the net for the summer Under 16 soccer team who went to the states, and Kelly Boyle. Boyle, has the potential to be one of the better female athletes to come out of this town, and if she wins the job, she'll take it over for her sister Molly who came around last year and did a nice job. The obvious keys to this team is if they mix up the right chemistry, if either goalie can keep the team in games, and if the job for the young Orpen, just a sophomore, isn't too much at the center half-back position. My prediction: boys, sub .500; Girls, about .500, will come to last few games for playoff spot.

The volleyball team could be a surprise with Andrea Toland, Katie Morris, Katilyn O'Brien and sophomore Jenn Gariepy, who stands at 6'2" and that alone should allow her to be a blocking force. The problem with this team, is they play in the Merrimack Valley with the likes of Dracut and Billerica. My prediction: about .500 and birth to the state tournament.

As for the football and golf teams, look for more on them next week.

In Wilmington, this could be the season for several teams. The football team is a legitimate contender for the league title and with the type of offense they have, they could knock Newburyport off its high horse. But if they want to accomplish anything this year, they should listen to Eric Banda, in this sports section is a story on him and there hasn't been an athlete like him in a long time, if you want proof just read what he says. My prediction: I won't say the record here, but if they stay healthy they should be one of the top two teams in the league.

No one thought the boys soccer team could go to the state championship game and the Eastern Mass. final in the previous two seasons, and with almost all of the players gone, it seems unlikely that the team will go again. But I'd never put that past this program. If they keep their same style of very tough and physical play where they wear down the opponents, then this team could make things interesting. My prediction, above .500 and a game or two into the tournament.

Both the girls soccer and field hockey teams have high expectations for the season and both teams are loaded with seniors with experience and seniors who are hungry for some success. The soccer team needs to find replacements for Lisa Dellascio and Amanda Lojek, need to find some good chemistry and leaders, and need for everyone to step it up a notch because they could cause some serious damage. As for the field hockey team, they seem to have a stacked offensive attack which is big in the sport, with several strong defenders, if the goalie situation patches up and they too find the right chemistry, they could also make some noise. My predictions: soccer, a breakthrough season, going deep into the tournament; field hockey, ditto.

Finally, the golf, volleyball and cross country teams seem to be pretty young and they should all get some victories, but it's unsure just how many.

This fall season expects to be a pretty good one for several of the local high school teams in Wilmington and Tewksbury. Katilyn Sughrue (top picture) of the WHS Field Hockey team, hopes that the 'Cats can rebound to their old form, while, the TMHS Volleyball team hopes to have many celebrations like this when their season gets underway on Monday. Then, Erik Hamilton and the rest of TMHS Football team will be previewed next week as they look to rebound for its 2-8 season.

"Big Enough to Serve - Small Enough to Care"

The Wilmington girls and boys cross country teams look for successful seasons, as Barbara Tate, the lone girl's captain, and Jay Gillis, the lone boy's captain, stand aside head coach Tom Bradley. (Photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

X-C teams take their mark

By PAUL HAYES
WILMINGTON- In Cross Country, a team is only as good as their seventh runner.

Or in the case of the Wilmington boys cross country team, make that their fifth, sixth and seventh runners.

The Wilmington High School boys cross country team has a strong returning nucleus of third year captain senior Jay Gillis, seniors Paul DeGennaro and Greg Monteiro and junior Scott Buck from last years 7-4 squad (5th Cape Ann League).

However, third year coach Tom Bradley points out that a cross country meet is rarely won by a teams top four runners.

"Whether you're good or not depends on your five, six and seven runners," Bradley said.

Looking to fill the coveted bottom three slots in the teams top seven are a slew of talented harriers (slang for cross country runner) led by seniors Adam Campbell, Scott Neville and Jason Thresher.

Also vying for varsity spots are sophomore Tim Robillard, and freshmen Keith Frongillo, Greg Buck, Jordan Weiner and Nick Eaton.

Bradley looks for the team to improve on last years record, despite the loss of their two and three runners, Jason Crescenzo and Paul Cheney.

On the girls side, the team is only as good as their fifth runner.

That's because the girls roster is currently only made up of five female harriers, although Bradley indicated two more girls have expressed interest and may join the team.

The girls team (9th Cape Ann League) may not be in contention for a league championship this year, but Bradley hopes to lay the foundation for winning seasons in years to come.

"I just want to see them develop as a team this year," Bradley said.

Seniors Layna Dakin and captain Barbara Tate will spend the season showing the ropes to what Bradley referred to as a promising group of freshman: Michelle Brush, Allison Fisher and Meghan Fudge.

"They should be a good base for next year," Bradley said.

This year also marks the start of a middle school cross country program, which Bradley hopes will serve as a feeder system into the high school cross country programs.

Both teams compete in their final preseason race on Thursday at Westford Academy, in a tri-meet with Westford Academy and Chelmsford.

The season opens on Monday with a meet at home versus Amesbury.

Push the stats aside, Banda just wants to win

By JAMIE POTE

Eric Banda had a monster season last year. He rushed for almost 700 yards on 100 or so carries, averaging about 7 yards per carry, while scoring 8 touchdowns as one of the Wilmington High football team's running backs. He also was the team's mainstay on defense, averaging about 15 tackles per game as one of the two linebackers.

Now he is coming in as a senior, with a team that might be as talented if not more talented than the one in 1996. He knows that the team has a legitimate shot to go the SuperBowl. But we all know that he can put up some serious numbers, as in stats that we can talk about and write about every week.

"If we're winning, say we're 8-0 and I have 500 yards, I won't care," answered Banda about whether or not he is gunning for the 1,000 yard plateau starting with Saturday's season and home opener against North Andover at 1:30. "If it's the end of the year and we're in the SuperBowl and I have 800 yards, I won't care. It won't bother me at all, no matter how many yards I get."

"If we're on (the Boston University Field) for the SuperBowl, none of that recognition will matter to me - I don't care about any of that stuff. This is it (for me as a high school player). We don't think any other team is better than us. We want to win it all. But if we lose to a better team then we do, just as long as everyone comes out and plays as hard as they can and gives it one hundred percent everyday, than I'll be happy."

If it wasn't noticeable just in that quote about the kind of special kid Wilmington has in Eric Banda, count all of the times he said "we" in some form. And that says it all about him, the three-sport star athlete has always been "we" first.

"There's no question he's the guy for us," said head coach Bob Almeida.

"We feel that defensively we have two tackling machines with him and Jim Fennelly as our linebackers. Eric's a tremendous leader and a tremendous football player. Wilmington should be very proud to have a kid like him."

What's more impressive about the 6'0, 255 pounder who can run a 4.7 second 40-yard dash, is that over this summer he went to the Joe Namath Camp in New York. There he was with 400 or so other high school football players from this region, including many from New York City and New Haven, Connecticut. But it was Eric Banda who walked away with the Most Valuable Player Trophy of the 400 players.

"Yeah I was really surprised that I got it," said Banda. "There were some really good football players there. I was really happy with the camp, it was three sessions every day of hitting. It wasn't a condition camp, but the hitting drills got you in condition.

"It was really competitive, it made you keep an open mind to a lot of other things that happen in football, not just the skill level. There were a lot of kids from Brooklyn who didn't have that much skill, but were so tough, I mean really tough."

"And being at the camp just made you look at other ways, it was where your toughness and what's in your heart takes over. You always hear coaches talk about toughness and having big hearts, but sometimes you don't see that. (At the camp) you did."

Last season Banda really came into his own as an athlete, especially as a football player (with baseball and hockey his other sports). He is so physically tough that he just drops his shoulder and buries opponents while looking for those extra yards to get the team a much needed first down. Or when the team needs a big tackle on defense, it's him who sprints across the field and reacts with his instincts and sends the ball-carrier back several yards.

"At running back it's more of a skilled position that you have to practice a lot," he said about his two positions. "But as a linebacker, it's basically saying 'OK, let's see who's is tougher me or you' and hitting the guy."

That, Banda is certainly not afraid of doing. He can bury the best of them and he can do it like no player has done in a while. Banda is very similar to Sean Kerrigan, who played the same two positions and graduated in '96, but Kerrigan was raw; Banda, on the other hand, is very smooth and poised.

"Things get smaller, and the game gets slower and you just see things," said Banda. "Last year a lot of things came together, and this year they have started off right, except for my ankle. But as long as I get conditioned and work hard than I should be fine."

About two weeks ago during a pre-season scrimmage against Burlington, Banda twisted his ankle which has put him on crutches for a while, until he put the pads back on earlier this week for practice. He won't be doing any live hitting drills, and says no matter what, he'll be ready for a much improved and big physical North Andover team.

"Whenever you have an injury you always forget about it when you play," said Banda. "A few years ago I had a back injury and I thought it would bother me during the game, but it didn't, you just forget everything and it goes away. Your instincts just take over. But my ankle feels really good, so come Saturday it should be back to normal."

Last season the team finished 8-3, lost to two tough teams in Newburyport and Masconomet, lost another to Pentucket, a team who they would have beaten 9-of-10 times, but happened to lose to them on that 10th day. But they also beat Tewksbury, North Andover and Ipswich some other tough teams and Banda hopes the team can build off the emotional and tremendous 14-7 thriller against Tewksbury on Thanksgiving morning.

"We have to respect every team. Last year we didn't respect Pentucket. We went in already ling machines with him and Jim Fennelly as our linebackers. Eric's a tremendous leader and a tremendous football player. Wilmington should be very proud to have a kid like him."

Right now Banda is hobbling, as he sprained his ankle in a scrimmage against Burlington. Almeida said that right now Banda, a tri-captain along with Russ Hubby and Matt Minghella, can run straight ahead with no pain, but is limited when cutting. Almeida said the team hopes Banda will be ready for Saturday's season and home opener against North Andover at 1:30 pm.

"We'll be ready to go, the kids are excited and so am I. North Andover is big in size and we think they'll be better than they were last year," said Almeida.

Offensively, Banda was the team's leading rusher last year with almost 700 rushing yards on just about 100 carries, while scoring 8 touchdowns. He along with Hiltz, Minghella, Mark Jepson and Bob French combined for 1,430 rushing yards and 17 touchdowns and that was with Mike Gennetti getting a lot of the action as well. All five of them run at least a 4.8 second 40-yard dash and they should all put up some big points this year.

"There's no question we should put up a lot of points," said Almeida. "I think this is the most explosive offense we've had."

Hiltz, 6'0, 170 pounds, was in his first year as a quarterback last season and this year as a junior he hopes to improve on his numbers (26-for-59 passing, 511 yards, with 6 TD passes, 3 INTs, and 268 rushing yards). Last year he made a lot of strides especially after the loss to Pentucket learning when not to try to force things. He is very good at getting out of the pocket when pres-thinking about the week after's game against Masconomet.

"Whenever we did sprints (at practice in the past) we'd always say this one is for Tewksbury, or this one is for the SuperBowl. But when we do them now, it's this one is for North Andover, and then next week it'll be Masco (the team's second opponent this season) and then Amesbury (the team's third share of direct snaps and go with it. He has lost his favorite target of DeAmato, but senior Sean Quigley should step into that role as they hooked up for one touchdown pass last season against Triton.

Minghella, one of the three tri-captains this year, was out the first few games last year with a broken collarbone. He did come back, not 100 percent and helped the team with its spread out rushing attack and he finished with 171 yards on 20 carries and 2 touchdowns. Almeida said Minghella looks awesome thus far in the pre-season and the wingback is flying all over the place.

Jepson, 5'9, 145-pound junior, is a solid back who should see more time this season with the ball. Last season he carried the ball 27 times, good for 203 yards and 2 touchdowns, but never rushed the ball more than five times in a game.

French, the last of the four backs, is also a junior and he didn't touch the ball until the fifth game of the season against North Reading when he scored on a 62-yard run on his first carry. French ended his sophomore season with 139 rushing yards on 15 carries and scoring 2 touchdowns. This year he has been the team's touchdown leader in the pre-season. Almeida said he has bulked up to 180 pounds, adding 20 pounds of muscle and he looks like he is for real.

However, none of them will be for real unless the offensive line can create some holes. Quigley (6'3, 200) will be the left end, and will be the split end when the offense goes Pro, while junior Josh Howlett (6'3, 225) will be the right end. Senior Rob Rodgers (5-11, 225) will be the left tackle, and Russ Hubby (5'10, 235), the third of the team's captains, returns as one of the better (right) tackles in the league. Justin Cammarata (5-10, 180), a junior will be the team's left guard, while, Jim Fennelly (5'11, 175), also a junior, will be the right guard. Adam DiPasquale (5'11, 200) will be the center and he is also one of the better linemen around.

"We'll be running more Pro (offense) this year," said Almeida. "We want to take advantage of Quigley, what he is doing now is what we expected him to do the last two years. With him we are running fades and hooks and we really haven't done any of that before."

Defense is the team's biggest question mark. The last few years the team really came together as a defensive unit, especially down the stretch. Banda and Fennelly are the two linebackers, and they and the defensive backfield need to set the tone starting on Saturday with no traces of uncertainty. The linebackers duo could be one of the best pair Wilmington has seen, as both of them can cover a lot of ground and both of them are good for a dozen or so tackles a game.

The backfield has Josh Hiltz as the free safety and he did a masterful job last year considering he was only a sophomore and was thrown into the position after Pentucket scored three late touchdowns. French will be inserted as the strong safety, while a four-man rotation of Pat Heffernan, Quigley, Minghella season, Banda responded with, "Not at all. We have a lot of seniors who do a great job with the leadership role. Nothing will be put on my shoulders, I'm only one guy who is helping out. We have a lot of great players on this team, Matt Minghella, Russ Hubby, Sean Quigley ... everyone helps out."

and Jepson will share the two cornerback positions.

As for the rest of the defense, Jeff Coughlin returns as the right end and he did a solid job as one of the team's pass rushers last year. He has also bulked up to 190 pounds, and on the opposite side of him will be the combination of Joe Ranno and Andrew Campbell as the left end. Junior Joe Cotto, a 5-10, 210 pounder, will be the right tackle, with Cammarata as the nose guard and Rodgers as the left tackle.

Wilmington will have many players playing just about the entire game, so fatigue and staying healthy is also a huge key.

"If our defense plays as well as it can, I think we'll be a tough team to beat," said Almeida.

Last year Wilmington started out 1-2 losing to Pentucket and Newburyport after beating Ipswich in the team's opener. This year they have three tough teams again with North Andover, Masconomet and Amesbury to start the season off, so once again they must start off with a few wins to have a chance at that elite title.

A lot of things must happen for this team to be in contention down the stretch, but since Almeida has taken over the program, the team has gone 23-9-1. That's impressive, but not that impressive in the eyes of this program.

Season opener on Wednesday washed up Field Hockey team setting some big goals

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Last season might have been a disappointing one for the Wilmington High girls field hockey team.

But it was also a learning season as well.

Now in her second year as head coach, Patti Cushing admitted that she feels much more comfortable now, than she did a year ago. Supplied with 12 seniors and four juniors, this year's team has almost guaranteed not to repeat last year's subpar 5-8-5 season. This team wants the enriched WHS field hockey tradition to be back intact with the 1999 team setting the tone once again.

"The girls have a goal that they want to win everything - to take it all," said Cushing. "They do have the talent to do it. But the Cape Ann League is very good in field hockey, and we have Amesbury (in the season and home opener on Wednesday) and then we have Triton (on Friday, September 10) so we'll know where we stand after our first two games."

Although Wilmington lost two girls who were considered its heart-and-sole of the program in goal keeper Patrice Mendoza and Lauren Holloway, who both have taken their sticks and cleats to the UMass-Lowell program, this year's team has plenty of experience back, leading with co-captains Kara Langone and Maura Lynch.

"Both Kara and Maura are outstanding players and they both should have big years," said Cushing.

Langone was the team's leading scorer last year with 7 points, and expect bigger numbers this year as she seems to have a lot of solid support up front. Cushing will stay with her 4-3 attack up front, and that means, Kara Langone with team up with other seniors Lauren Allaby, Katie Holloway, Katie Chisholm and Allison MacDonald with juniors Kim Gillespie and Katelyn Sughrue. Sophomore Stefany Quinton, who Cushing says will be a major surprise to the field hockey game this season, also joins the group up front.

"We're expecting Stefany to be a major goal scorer for us," said Cushing. "She has done a great job of scoring in the scrimmages so far and we think she'll be a major factor to the team's success."

As for the midfielders, they pretty much start and end with Lynch. She has really come into her own as an athlete over the past year after sitting out a knee injury most of her sophomore season. She has very good skills, is a strong hitter and she is very determined for success in her last year as a Wildcat. Giving her a hand at the midfield positions will be Tina Falanga, Katie Hockey with sophomore Jackie Rubino substituting in for all three players.

Defensively, the team is very strong with Kristi Langone, Kara's twin, Colleen Campbell, and Courtney Gilligan, two other seniors. Gilligan will be the team's sweeper, and both Kristi Langone and Campbell are known for their long and hard hits which can obviously change the flow of any game.

With Mendoza gone, the starting goal keeper position still hasn't been determined. Sophomore Sheri Thresher has seen most of the action in pre-season and will get the nod in the first few games as Kathleen Walsh is currently on vacation. Cushing says that it'll probably take a while during the season before its known who will be the starter, but she says Thresher looks pretty good so far and is getting more confident with the more action she sees.

"We look really good right now, we're excited about getting going. We missed the state tournament by three points and we want to make it early this year. We had a lot of ties last year and we know that we won't be making it to the state tournament with 1-0 games, or 0-0 games.

"We are going to spread out the offense a bit more (scoring wise) and we're going to score a lot more goals this year than we did last year."

It's all in the family for the Wildcat Golf team

By DAVID FLYNN
Sports Correspondent

It is nice when families come together and show a special bond. It is as rewarding when siblings share a keen interest in something. This is true with the Ungarvasky and Velardo brothers of the Wilmington High golf team.

The pair of brothers, Aaron (sophomore) and Jordan (freshman) Ungarvasky, and Brian (junior) and David Velardo (freshman), enjoy the game of golf. This is lucky for head coach Al Fessenden as these four golfers will control the top seeds in the upcoming season.

As with all brothers, there probably is some friendly competition between the two. However, Aaron and Brian have stepped up and shown Fessenden that they are ready to take hold of the top two seeds and perhaps, lead Wilmington back to the playoffs.

This will not be an easy task however, as Fessenden lost his top four players from a year ago to graduation. They will not be easy to replace.

"It is tough to replace experience," said Fessenden, whose team finished 8-6-2 last season. "But, I really expected more out of my senior leadership."

This season, Fessenden fully expects Aaron and Brian to fill those shoes of last year's seniors and bring leadership to this young team.

"(Aaron and Brian) are fighting to be '1,'" said Fessenden. "I expect one of them to really blossom."

Jordan and David will play #3 and #4, but could be put in other positions as well. The same goes for the lone senior, Evan O'Neil and junior Jason Youngclaus who will find themselves in different seeds as the season progresses.

On Tuesday, Wilmington traveled to North Andover for the season's opening match. The young squad played tough, but in the end fell 7-5.

Aaron (#1 seed) and Jordan (#2) both were defeated. Aaron lost 3-and-2 while Jordan fell 2 down. The Velardo brothers had better luck however, as Brian (#3) defeated his opponent 3-and-2, while David (#4) won by a score of 2 and 1.

O'Neil's match proved to be the pivotal match for Wilmington but he was defeated on the final hole by a score of one down. Fessenden received a nice surprise as Youngclaus (#6) picked up a point as he leveled (tied) his opponent.

"We didn't come out on top," said Fessenden, "but I am impressed with their playing."

"I think as we gain in experience we will get it going."

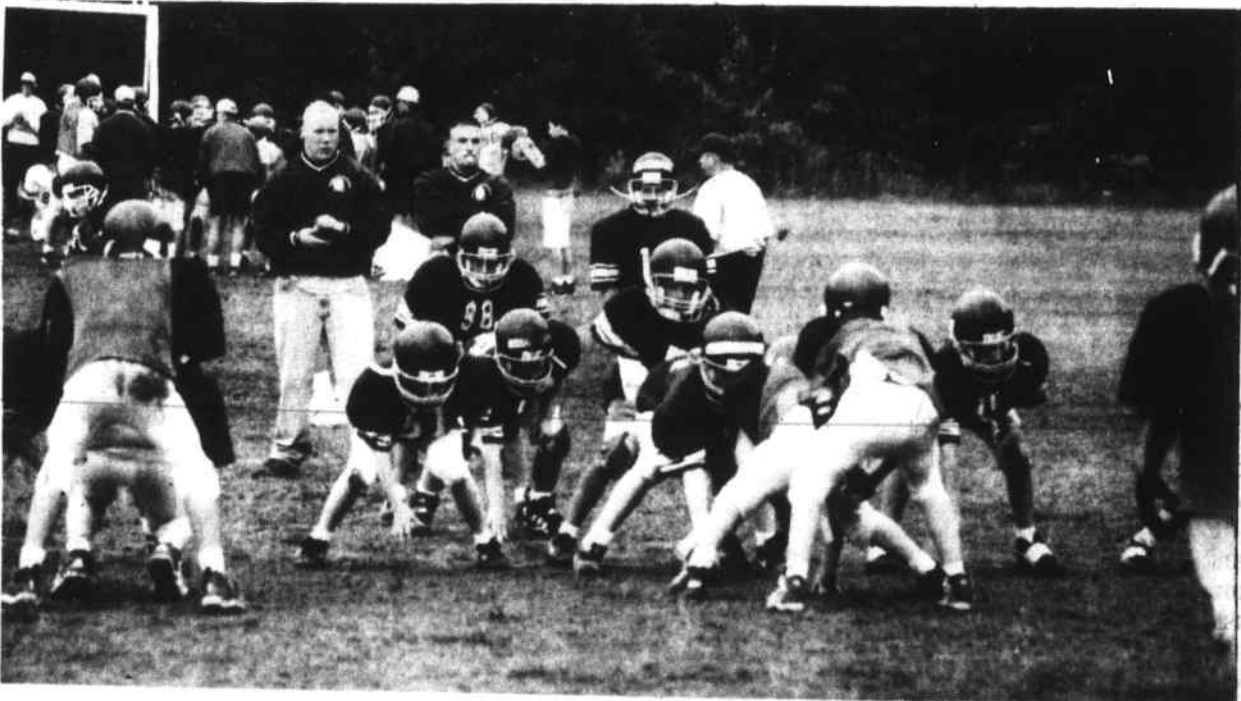

If the top six seeds, Shad Folten, Mike Montaldo and Jack Webb are waiting in the wings. If needed, they will be ready to fill a void in the lineup.

Wilmington finds itself 0-1 after their first match, but remember, it is still early in the season and this team has some growing to do.

"I think we will be better than some people think," said Fessenden. "(And) I believe we will surprise a lot of people."

Wilmington Pop Warner will begin its season on Sunday. Pictured above from left is C players Conor Moroney, Michael Johnson, Stephen Crowe and David Sweet who get in their set position, while below the B team scrimmaged Medway last week with head coach Steve O'Neill and assistant coach Noel Baratta looking on. ## Reading YMCA to reopen Sept. 12

WAKEFIELD - The Reading YMCA reopening has been pushed back until Monday, September 13. The building has been running its childcare programs starting September 1.

The Reading YMCA is slightly behind schedule for completion, which has led to the delayed opening. The Reading YMCA is going to be a state-of-the-art facility that will include two swimming pools, a 5,000 square foot fitness center, a 1,800 square foot aerobics studio, a gymnasium, classrooms, as well as a separate child care wing.

Among the new programs available at the new YMCA are Prime Time Family Time and Adaptive swim lessons. Prime Time Family Time is a schedule of activities for families to do together or separately while they are all in the building. Adaptive swim lessons are offered Monday through Friday to provide an opportunity for children with special needs to learn to swim

All Fall I classes at the Reading YMCA will begin the week of September 13. Classes at the Wakefield YMCA began September 7 as planned.

The Reading YMCA will also be holding a dedication and open house for the new facility Saturday, September 18 from 12:30 to 4 p.m. The ceremony is open to all members of the local community. Radio Disney will be broadcasting live from the Reading YMCA and there will be giveaways and much more.

The Wakefield YMCA will continue to be open for members to use. The Wakefield YMCA is open seven days a week and the pool reopened Tuesday, September 7.

There is still time to sign up for classes available throughout the months of September and October. For information on these classes and for any questions, stop by or call the Wakefield YMCA at 245-YMCA.

Under 10 A Cyclones off to jumping start

The Wilmington Girls U10 "A" Cyclone team got a jump start on the fall season cruising past the opposition at the North Reading Labor Day Kickoff Classic Tournament.

The Cyclones were undefeated over the weekend ending with a record of 3-0-1. Wilmington notched victories over North Reading 1, Saugus and North Reading 2, with scores of 3-0, 3-1 and 3-0.

The team's only tie of the tournament came against Dedham 0-0. The Cyclones' teamwork paid off and frustrated the other teams while allowing eight different players to score over the weekend. In game 1's win over North Reading 1, goals were scored by Nicole Nihan, Leah Potcner and Jessica Labrecque. In game 3 goals were scored by Stephanie Sauve, Leah Potcner and Christa Cavallaro and in game 4 Jenny DiNuccio, Amanda Lord and Elizabeth Wilson scored for the team.

The team's defense with sweepers Jessica Stira and Dana Nolan and midfielders Katie Cole, Jen O'Neill and Stephanie Sauve controlled the games for Wilmington by keeping the majority of the play in the opposing zone. Forwards Leah Potcner, Jessica Labrecque, Elizabeth Wilson, Nicole Nihan, Christa Cavallaro, Jenny DiNuccio and Amanda Lord showed great positional play which paid off as each scored goals for the Cyclone team.

Goalies Leah Potcner, Jessica Labrecque and back up goalie Dana Nolan had superb outings in the net allowing only one goal in the four game tournament. The Cyclones begin the fall season with a home game match against Medford United this Saturday.

First encounter for girls soccer a big rematch

very close in ability," said Hendee. "I feel very comfortable with every kid on my team to step in any game and play well."

Obviously the keys to this year's team will be if they can replace Dellascio and Lojek, not just two players but many other players stepping up as well. They also must stay injury free and share that cohesiveness that the boys soccer team has over the last few years. This Friday will be a sure test for that, as Wilmington will open its season at WHS at 3:30 with the same North Reading team who eliminated them on a cold afternoon last year.

"I think the kids are looking for a little rematch in that one," said Hendee.

Starting with those ten seniors, forwards include Lindsay Bruno, who holds the all-time scoring record at WHS, as well as Nicole McIver and Kristen Kacamburas, another speedy and solid all-around player who might also see time as the team's outside halfback. Lauren McCarthy is also one of the team's key players as she is ultimately the best free kicker and throw-in player and those skills have a lot to do with territorial play. Alicia Paquin will step in for Lisa Dellascio as the center midfielder's position and Hendee feels very comfortable thus far with that strategy.

"Alicia sees the field very well, she has good ball control and she works very well with Cristina (Desimone, the team's stopper-back)," said Hendee. "Cristina is an offensive minded defender. She did a good job for us last year bringing up the ball out of our zone to initiate the offense."

Other seniors include halfback Arlene Muscufo, with defenders Christy Ross, Jackie Ingram and Lynn Hurley, all four known for their all out hustle.

The junior class includes another strong bunch including Becky Rufo. She replaces Meredith Cipriani in the net as Cipriani will most likely be out for most if not all of the season with a foot injury. Rufo has had some experience in the net last year and played very well, and her athleticism should take her a long way. Helping her out in front of her are forwards Jenny Michaud and Kendall O'Dea (who'll split time at half back), midfielder Kristen Pelletier, with defenders Desimone, Michele Lemos and Molly Pidgeon, who played extremely well in the last year's tournament.

The lone sophomore on the team is Debbie Dellascio, who had a brilliant frosh season and has a lot of potential, while the freshmen group include Stacy Comer, who will see time at the center-midfielder's spot, Jennifer Leone, Micheala Rufo, Danielle Spry and Mary Sullivan.

Volleyball team digging for success

some fire power as starters.

Sophomores Lindsey Borsetti and Kristin Sauve as well as senior tri-captain Erin Rowe, will vie for the remaining starting positions in the back row.

Rowe has never played on the varsity. Still, she was elected a captain because of her determination to succeed. She will be important in helping the younger players understand what hard work is all about.

"(Rowe) has no varsity experience, but she brings such a great attitude and a lot of hustle," said

Nee, who has been the head coach for six years at Wilmington. "She is just a great kid."

Wilmington is a young team with very little or no varsity playing experience. Many teams faced with this situation would call it a "re-building year." Nee on the other hand, will not hear of such a thing. "The girls are not afraid to work, so we will come about (this season). Our primary goal is to get back to the tournament. I think you will find the girls will rise to the occasion."

Thus far, Wilmington has yet to be defeated. The opening game is Monday at Tewksbury High in a non-league battle starting at 3:30. But, how long can this young and determined team stay this way? Hopefully, for a while.

Two-time North Champs set to go on Friday

or score however they can.

"We'll never be a prolific scoring team, but I know Joe Kane can score, and hopefully some of the younger players coming up from JV can too," said Scanlon.

Up front with Kane, will be juniors Jason Frongillo and Cliff Cavalho. The latter two have had success scoring at the JV level, so hopefully they can help Kane, a good all-around player, to put the ball in the net when the chances come about. The halfback position is where Wilmington has the most experience with Rourke, Darren Arciero and Jensen, who are all solid players, with A.J. Mitzan, Mike Halas, Jonathan Bamberg and Jared Constantino also will get some minutes there.

Defensively, Tim Riley, a junior, will be the team's stopper-back, with Jeff Cannon as the sweeper and Dan Keating and Andy Myers as the two flanker backs. Chris Calway, Pat Sullivan and freshman Jason Gustin will also substitute on defense.

Taking over for T.J. Flynn in the net will be junior Dan Alosco, a converted goalie who looks pretty good. Alosco was the junior varsity's striker last season, but went to a few soccer camps over the summer and appears to have the position. Halas will be the team's back-up, and although he has more experience at the position, Scanlon said Halas can help the team more as a positional player.

Wilmington's home opener at WHS, will be Wednesday, September 22 against Lynnfield.

College notebook back again with several locals

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

While this paper is featuring its fall high school previews in the respective sports this week, that also means that locals at the collegiate level are also debuting. As we try every year, we will feature as many local athletes participating in college sports, so if you know of one, give us a call here at 658-2346 and ask for Jamie.

Anyhow, thus far this fall season several locals from both Wilmington and Tewksbury have furthered their high school careers. At Bentley College, Tewksbury's Justin Hamilton, is a sophomore line-backer for its football season who started its season last weekend against Gannon. The first home game for the Falcons will be this Friday night at 7:00 p.m. against Merrimack College. Over the last 11 seasons, Bentley has gone 83-23-1, in Division II Play and they expect to continue that success this season. As for Hamilton, a 5-9, 185-pounder, he'll be looking for some time on defense wearing the number 16 jersey.

Also at Bentley College but in field hockey is freshman Kristen Cronin, who captained last year's TMHS team to its third straight state tournament appearance.

Wilmington's Billy Harrison, the Town Crier's 1996 Male Athlete of the Year has returned to the Stonehill Football team as a running back after a season off due to some serious injuries, while sophomore running back Tim Lavoie of Tewksbury helped Colgate win its opener this past weekend as he rushed for 30 yards.

At UMass-Lowell, two players on last year's WHS Field Hockey team have made the River Hawk squad. Lauren Holloway will be a forward on this year's team, while Patrice Mendoza the outstanding goalie for the 'Cats the last three years, will try to break as the number one when the team hosts East Stroudsburg this Sunday for its home opener starting at 11:00. UMass-Lowell finished last season at 8-10 in NCAA Division II play, but did go 15-4 in 1997 which set the school's record in victories since the program initiated in 1975.

ANTHONY MANCONI

Folks when a person brightens a room by his or her presence, friendliness and charm, he or she has been endowed with a priceless GIFT called, "Charisma". It cannot be purchased, borrowed or stolen. Few of the many I know who are blessed with this God given treasure are, Juanita Hass, Melissa Hurley, Debra Sullivan, Marie Cejka, Michael D'Agostino, Skip Cavallaro, Jim Arigo, Elaine Haggerty, Jimmy Fanikos, Nina Coletta, Ellen Bertino, Pat Millward more later.

While on vacation in New Hampshire, Dr. Richard Sharp DMD, drove on a BROKEN Bridge, hit a CAVITY and fell into a ROOT CANAL.

In Columbus' time people believed that the earth was FLAT. Well folks, maybe they were RIGHT then because Columbus sailed with FOUR SHIPS and LOST ONE when it went over the EDGE.

After a, "Fire and Brimstone Sermon" George Gould told Fr. Leo Shea, "That was a wonderful sermon Father Leo, everything you said applies to someone I know."

Any man who has NOT loved, "WINE, WOMEN or SONG" has been a FOOL his whole life long. Phil Quinn told me, "The race is NOT always to the SWIFT-BUT, for those who keep on RUNNING."

Kathy is on a seafood diet. Every time she "sees food" she starts eating.

Folks, how many remember when cars had RUMBLE SEATS, RUNNING BOARDS, HORN that sounded like "A-HOO-WAN". Beachwagons with real wood, and Kathy just reminded me of the CRANK in front now she said, "it's The Chipper in the driver's seat."

I sometimes think that the song, "Second Hand Rose" was about my family during the depression. I wore pants that had a patch sewed on a patch and, my sister wore "hand me down BLOOMERS". We all knew what the neighbors wore because we had clothes-lines strung from house to house.

Sonny Pearlman had to give up prize fighting on account of his hands. The referee kept stepping on them.

Uncle John Shea's daily greeting, "the top of the morning to you and, the REST of the day to my SELF."

I find that some radio and TV programs have gone downhill. I remember my late mother tuned in Edmund McCue, the Gospel Singer every noontime on radio. He ended his daily program singing, "If I have wounded any soul today, If I have caused one foot to go astray. If I have walked my own willful way, Dear Lord Forgive."

A City Assessor asked me, "Chipper, how many Idiots live in this house including YOU?" "How dare you insult me that way!" "O'Kay I'm sorry, I'll rephrase the question, "How many Idiots live here excluding YOU!"

Tony Stack told me that his grandfather was on the police force in Ireland. He wouldn't take a Quarter. If he couldn't FOLD it he wouldn't take it."

My sister Maureen cured her five year old son of taking candy, jelly beans and cookies off the shelves when she goes shopping. When she goes into a supermarket, she takes young

When they were building the Callahan Tunnel my grandfather Angelo was watching and shaking his head. A foreman asked, "what's the matter old-timer don't you like the way we are working?" "Nope," he replied, "in Italy we work from both sides." "Well," the foreman asked, "what if you don't meet in the middle?" Grandpa smiled and said, "Stupido, then we have TWO TUNNELS!"

Aunt Nora told the photographer, "this picture you took of me came out awful, is there something wrong with your camera?" Don Young the photographer smiled and said, "My camera is O'Kay but you must remember the last time I took a picture of you 'I' was ten years younger."

Bulb and perennial sale

The Middlesex Conservation District is having a bulb and perennial sale on September 25th at the 4-H County Fairgrounds in Westford.

The District offers a large selection of bulbs to plant this fall for a beautiful garden next spring. All the old favorites will be available as well as several elegant combinations of bulbs of mass planting. New varieties include: the Fusilier Bouquet scarlet tulip and the yellow star shaped Tulip Tarda, both dwarf tulips. The Obedm narcissus and huge gardenia-like blossoms, and the late blooming Yellow Cheerfulness with double rose like flowers.

They will have crocus and grape hyacinths and many other small bulbs. An extra large white hyacinth bulb with a stylish forcing glass will brighten the house on cold winter days. They have an interesting selection of Iris - dwarf, intermediate and tall varieties and two that bloom in early summer and bloom again in the fall.

Popular azaleas and rhododendron from Weston Nursery are available as well as Myrtle and Pachysandra which can help stabilize steep areas while providing evergreen color and spring blossoms.

Middlesex Conservation District is a not-for-profit environmental agency that works with landowner's and landscapers to protect the water we drink and the soils that grow our food.

Tree talk in Wakefield

"The local 1999 Tree of the Year is a Northern red oak in Doris Rufo's back yard at 46 Wiley Street," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Mrs. Rufo reports that her husband, now deceased, used to hide in a crevice on the south side of the tree as a child. The crevice is 'practically all grown together now and squirrels have to get in sideways...."

"This giant oak has a branch span of 112 feet and measures at least 18 feet around. Its acorns are the food supply for neighborhood squirrels, and its branches have held many bird nests over the years.

"The second place winner is the magnificent maple which stands on the Zaya property overlooking Lake Quannapowitt at the corner of Main and Cordis.

"It was nominated in both 1997 and 1998 by Marie Crouse of Cordis Street, who writes, 'This maple tree has been our silent friend for over 30 years...it has provided the perfect background for cherished photos of christenings, birthday and 4th of July parties, anniversaries, proms and graduations, weddings and other happy get-togethers.'

"The Tree of the Year contest is sponsored by Trees for Wakefield, Inc. in Wakefield; and Sue Norden, Chamber of Commerce...."

Metro North in Woburn and Wilmington. "Plans for a 75,000 square foot office building at 600 Metro North Drive (the Commerce Way extension from Atlantic Avenue through to Presidential Way in Wilmington) was given the OK by planners," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Board members, however, said endorsement of the plan was conditional upon a return appearance before the board in May to discuss the status of the new Route 93 interchange and the impact of the development on traffic if it opens before the interchange and any planned mitigation.

"Harold DuLong of the Burlington offices of Riemer & Braunstein said the building would be located on what is currently Presidential Way, accessible only through Wilmington. He said there have been discussions with Wilmington regarding any concerns they may have about the project.

"Planning Director John Cashell said he had spoken with Wilmington's planning director who had told him that Wilmington was no longer objecting to opening access to the Presidential Way-Commerce Way connector before the new interchange was open. Cashell said he told her, though, that Woburn would have a problem with it.

"The interchange is projected for completion reportedly in 'late summer' 2000; the proposed building as well as the new GTE Internetworking facility also on Metro North Drive are slated to open in 'summer' or June 2000.

"Planners have repeatedly expressed concern that if the building occupancy doesn't coincide with the interchange opening, a traffic nightmare could be an unpleasant reality.

"The project covers part of 9.8 acres which are being broken up into two lots, DuLong said; no plans were presented for the second phase...."

A 'lovefest' in Burlington

"There is a consensus that Route 3 needs to be widened; the question facing local and state officials is agreeing on a method to achieve that goal," notes the

Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Even in that respect, the leadership on Beacon Hill supports a public-private funding partnership and the only apparent sticking point is whether there should be requirements with regard to hiring union labor for the work.

"That was the feeling expressed by panelists at a recent program presented by the Burlington Business Round Table.

"On the panel were state Rep. Charles Murphy, D-Burlington; Ned Corcoran, deputy secretary for the state Executive Office of Transportation and Construction, and Spencer Wright, senior vice president of public financing for Lehman Brothers.

"Invited to the session, but not in attendance, was state Sen. Robert Havern, D-Arlington. Havern, whose district includes Burlington and Billerica, is Senate chairman of the Transportation Committee.

"Communities along the Route 3 corridor, including Burlington, have been pushing to expedite expansion of the highway from the Route 128 interchange to the New Hampshire border, a stretch of 21 miles.

"The latest proposal calls for a private consortium to fund design and transportation, estimated at $200 million, with the contractor then being paid by the state over an extended period.

"The House and Senate passed separate versions of the bill last year, but were unable to reconcile those measurements before adjournment.

"Noting the high level of support for the expansion plan, Murphy said he felt like he was 'preaching to the converted.'

"He said that sentiment is also prevalent at Beacon Hill.

"I'm happy to say everyone at the Statehouse is on board," stated Murphy, who called a recent hearing on the bill 'a big lovefest...."

Diet helps to knock out high blood pressure

If you have high blood pressure (defined as a reading of 140/90 and above), you want powerful medicine to control it. And - as study after study has shown - diet is powerful medicine. It can't always replace pills and other medical means when blood pressure is elevated, but it often does. And it can frequently either boost the effect of medication or allow for a lower dose. More good news: Those most in need of help will make the greatest gains from good eating. The higher your blood pressure, the more it is likely to fall if you use your head when you fill your belly.

Here's how you can use diet therapy to reduce high blood pressure:

Follow an eating plan geared to weight control. For those people who are overweight, a low-fat (made up of less than 20 percent of calories) diet, high in unrefined complex carbohydrates is ideal.

Iron Overload Awareness Week September 19-25

One million Americans will die undiagnosed of an easily treated medical condition, according to Vincent Felitti, M.D., Director of Preventive Medicine at Kaiser Permanente in San Diego.

In Massachusetts more than 29,000 are believed to need diagnosis and treatment for excess body iron.

Governor Argeo Paul Cellucci has proclaimed September 19 to 25 Iron Overload Awareness Week, and urges our state's citizens to inform themselves of this common and deadly but treatable condition.

Kenneth Bridges M.D. of Harvard said that iron overload is "the most unrecognized problem in American medicine."

Excess iron is acquired by eating a normal diet. Ordinary food is loaded with an overabundance of iron, which is toxic in excess. The condition is "an epidemic," said Virgil Fairbanks, M.D., internist at Mayo Clinic.

Treatment for children after heart surgery

By DR. MICHAEL ARTMAN
New York University Medical Center

Emotional well-being is often a neglected aspect of recovery from heart surgery. This is particularly true where children are concerned.

Most children who undergo heart surgery have little trouble bouncing back physically since, generally, they don't have the underlying chronic problems of adult heart patients. While overall care efforts may concentrate traditionally on medical issues, a child's emotional well-being is equally important. For older children and teen-agers, in particular, recovery from heart surgery carries extra emotional baggage and stress.

Typically, children begin physical rehabilitation within two to three days of heart surgery. Children are encouraged to get out of bed and walk for several hours in the morning and evening. On an average, they go home within five days. Some children who have undergone more complicated surgeries may be bedridden a few days longer and require more specialized rehabilitation. This consists of moving their muscles through a full range of motion and walking with the assistance of a physical therapist. Children may work on strengthening fine motor skills by putting together puzzles, drawing with crayons and painting. Infrequently, a child will need significant physical rehabilitation in a specialized rehabilitation center to build up muscles in both the lower and upper body before going home. Long-term rehabilitation continues at home with a prescribed exercise program. This entails 30 to 60 minutes of daily aerobic exercise, such as bicycling, walking, step aerobics or jumping jacks. Most children are happy to do these activities because they want to get back in shape so that they can run and play again. Physical rehabilitation generally lasts a total of four to six weeks.

A structured cardiac rehabilitation program also includes family counseling to allow young patients to build self-esteem and feel more confident when returning to school, friendships and normal activities. Young heart patients meet together monthly in group support sessions for one to two hours. The sessions provide a way for children and teen-agers to make friends with each other and share their concerns, making peer support one of the most important aspects of rehabilitation.

Children who have had heart surgery and their parents also meet monthly to talk with social workers, pharmacists, dietitians and cardiologists. At these meetings, families can air concerns and ask questions about such topics as medical insurance and the side effects of medicines. Or, parents may ask advice on what they should do about a son who is acting out because his older sister is now getting all of the attention after heart surgery.

In many medical centers, young heart patients and their families gather together for parties with the medical staff. This affords the children and parents the opportunity to renew friendships. This friendly atmosphere also allows children to feel more comfortable with their physicians, and helps speed recovery from heart surgery.

Dr. Michael Artman is a Professor of Pediatrics and Director of Pediatric Cardiology at NYU School of Medi-

Manage your own cholesterol

As most Americans are aware, high cholesterol levels can lead to heart problems and can be a significant risk factor for coronary heart disease.

What many Americans don't realize is that high cholesterol affects 100 million people and can be a risk even if there is no family history of heart disease. Knowing about cholesterol and how it can be managed is a key to leading a heart-healthy life.

Cholesterol comes from two sources: the body and the foods you eat. It is a type of fat made mostly by the liver and used to manufacture cell membranes, vitamin D and some hormones. The body needs cholesterol to function properly, but it generally doesn't need any more than the amount the liver produces. Dietary and lifestyle choices can cause cholesterol to rise, but can also be managed by making simple changes.

Reducing your intake of saturated fat is one of the most important keys to managing your cholesterol. The American Heart Association's Step 1 Diet, which is designed for the treatment of high blood cholesterol, recommends people limit the intake of saturated fat to 8 percent to 10 percent of total calories. You can do this by cutting back on such foods as red meat, whole milk products and butter.

To reduce cholesterol levels further, new products that contain nutrients such as psyllium, oat fiber and natural soybean extract are also giving consumers more options. For example, one new product that may help promote healthy cholesterol levels when used as part of a diet low in saturated fat and cholesterol is called Take Control. Take Control is from the makers of Promise and contains a natural soybean extract that was found in recent studies to help lower low density lipoprotein (LDL) or "bad" cholesterol levels by an average of 7 percent to 10 percent based upon one to two servings a day.

One reason these new products are getting so much attention is that they allow you to make small, simple dietary changes that will have a big impact. For example, you can simply replace your daily spread or margarine with a product such as Take Control for spreading on bagels and vegetables or melting on baked potatoes.

In addition to modifying the intake of saturated fat, the American Heart Association recommends the following lifestyle changes:

1. Maintain a Healthy Weight. Excess body fat not only helps raise LDL cholesterol levels, but also total blood cholesterol.
2. Get Physical. Regular physical activity can help raise HDL cholesterol levels.
3. Quit Smoking. Smoking increases LDL cholesterol levels and reduces HDL levels.
4. Reduce Stress. Learn to take time to relax and control your stress.

For more information on how to maintain healthy cholesterol levels, ask your doctor or visit www.TakeControl.com.

Seeing a doctor about Viagra

Research shows that men see their doctor 27 percent less often than women. This poses a serious health problem because men, particularly as they age, are at increased risk for diabetes, heart disease and other serious medical conditions that can only be diagnosed by a doctor.

But this trend may be changing. Since the Food and Drug Administration's approval of Viagra (sildenafil citrate) one year ago, doctors say that more men are coming into their offices seeking treatment for erectile dysfunction (ED).

Interestingly, many men who see their doctor's about Viagra are being diagnosed with underlying conditions associated with ED, such as diabetes, prostate cancer and high blood pressure.

The initial visit allows doctors to treat problems that may have otherwise gone undetected or untreated.

Prior to Viagra, it was estimated that in the United States, ED accounted for 525,000 physician visits annually. Today, more than 10 million Viagra prescriptions have been written by more than 225,000 doctors in the United States alone.

ED is the inability to attain and/or maintain an erection, satisfactory for sexual activity. ED affects about 30 million American men and approximately 140 million men worldwide. While ED may be associated with psychological conditions, such as depression or anxiety, most cases are due to physical causes. Smoking, alcohol and/or drug abuse also may cause ED.

Viagra, a tablet taken an hour before sexual activity, works by increasing the blood flow to the penis necessary for establishing and maintaining an erection. The drug is effective and has an excellent safety profile when used according to its labeling.

The most common side effects of Viagra include headache, facial flushing and indigestion. Some patients also may experience visual disturbances, such as sensitivity to light or a blue-green color tinge to vision. Side effects are generally mild to moderate and disappear in a short time. While Viagra can be taken with many commonly prescribed medications, it should not be taken by patients taking nitrates, such as nitroglycerin. The combination of Viagra and nitrates could cause a dangerous drop in blood pressure.

Viagra is just one treatment option for ED. Other treatments include penile surgical implants, hand-held vacuum constriction devices, self-administered injection therapy, transurethral pellet suppositories and counseling. For more information, see your doctor and ask for a full screening for other health problems. Additional information about ED may be obtained by visiting www.impotence.org.

Cleaning tips for allergy sufferers

Everyday Americans spend more than 85 percent of their time indoors getting bombarded by contaminants and allergens, such as dust, animal dander, mold, mildew and bacteria. After awhile, these contaminants not only take a toll on your furnishings by wearing away fabric fibers, but they also take a toll on your health.

Homeowners can reduce the amount of allergens that trigger allergies and allergy-induced asthma from their home by following these tips from THE MAIDS:

- Vacuum and dry clean draperies. If possible purchase machine washable draperies so they can be washed frequently in 130 degree water.

- If you have pets, try washing walls and doors with a cloth slightly dampened with water to remove some of the sticky, invisible dander.

- Dust mites, pollen and animal dander cling to furniture cushions. Cover cloth furniture with slip covers so they can be cleaned regularly.

- Deter ants by washing counters, cabinets and floors with equal parts of vinegar and water.

- To prevent mildew from forming in your refrigerator, wipe the inside with vinegar. The acid effectively kills mildew fungus.

- Place doormats inside your entryways as well as outside your doors to reduce the amount of outside dirt that gets tracked in.

- Throw away piles of newspapers, they could attract cockroaches. Cockroach debris is a strong allergen.

- Clean your air conditioner and change the filter according to the manufacturer's direction. Mold thrives in cooling systems and pollen gets trapped in the filter.

Children explore and discover through play

During the first year of life, a baby absorbs more new information than an adult does in 40 years. Everything is new to a baby - every sensation, everything he or she touches, hears, smells and tastes.

"All of these experiences are assimilated by the baby's brain," says Dr. Bruce Perry, a child psychiatrist and developmental neurobiologist at Baylor College of Medicine. Babies sort, categorize and compare all of these new sights, sounds, tastes, smells and sensations. "Every baby's brain creates and stores 'templates' to organize this new world."

Perry suggests that if the baby could speak, he or she might say, "These two blocks are the same shape, but this one is a different color. These are the same color, but this one feels different." By playing with different objects and identifying their unique features, babies learn about the world.

These early experiences create the neurobiological templates and systems that will be the foundation for thinking, feeling and behaving for the rest of a person's life. To help parents understand the importance of the first years, BRIO Corp., a toy company recognized by early childhood specialists for its commitment to play value, quality and fun asked Perry and his colleagues at CIVITAS Initiative, a national organization dedicated to improving the lives of children to comment on the importance of play.

"Through play, children explore and discover, experiment and solve, practice and master. Indeed, problem solving, creativity and invention through life have their roots in play," says Perry. And, play starts very early in life.

Perry describes the dropping game as an example of early play. A baby drops a rattle from the highchair. When mom picks it up and places it on the tray, the baby drops it again - cause and effect. Through this game, the baby learns how to impact the world. He or she also learns that things fall down, not up. And mom, having picked up the rattle time and time again, has helped the baby learn these principles.

Play allows children to acquire one of the most critical traits for intellectual growth: perseverance. Whether building with blocks or playing with trains, children learn that to succeed they sometimes have to try over and over again. Because the experience is enjoyable, it is easier for children to continue in a repetitive, challenging task.

Peter F. Reynolds, president of BRIO Corp., sees perseverance and self-confidence as keys to self-esteem. "If children believe they can do something successfully, they'll be excited about reaching out to try something new."

A first in Wilmington

"Michael Carr, a 1999 graduate of Wilmington High School (WHS) is the first recipient of North Regional Theatre Workshop's (NRTW) new scholarship offered to a graduating Wilmington High School senior," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"NRTW has been performing at WHS since 1993, and in an effort to thank the school for its support, NRTW has established a separate scholarship fund. This fund is designated for WHS seniors who will be going on to study any of the performing arts."

"Michael began performing in grammar school productions, and in Kidstock Summer Theatre where he played Danny in 'Grease' and Sydney in 'California Suite.' Michael became a member of NRTW in 1996 and has been seen in every production since."

"Among his many credits with NRTW are, Noah Claypole in 'Oliver' and Prince Dauntless in 'Once Upon a Mattress.' In addition, while a student at WHS, he was a member of the drama club where he played Hawkeye in 'MASH' and directed 'Under Milkwood.' Michael is attending UMass, Amherst this fall as a theater major."

Counseling for all ages in Wakefield, etc.

"The Tri-City Mental Health and Retardation Center, Inc. is pleased to announce that they are now providing outpatient mental health and substance abuse counseling for children, a comfortable hotel and have daily on-site talks during field trips that illuminate the country's extraordinary achievements on the seas. Some of the land destinations include the Archaeological Museum and the Maritime Museum, the Naval Heritage Centre at Portsmouth and a study of the exhibition of the Cutty Sark, one of the greatest of the tea clipper ships.

Six programs are scheduled for 1999: three from New York to England in Aug. and Sept. and three from England to New York in Sept, Oct and Dec. Tuition for the program ranges from $3,602 to $5,479, depending on the time of year and type of accommodations that the students select (transatlantic airfare is included).

adults, and elders at 26 Princess Street, Wakefield," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Since the recent closure of the Boston Regional Medical Center, the center has been receiving a steady increase of inquiries from residents of Wakefield, Melrose, North Reading, Reading and Stoneham who are seeking outpatient services. 'When we began to receive calls from residents of the community, we felt we needed to respond and took immediate steps to accommodate the need,' commented Ross Kleiman, associate executive director for Clinical Services."

"We have been open now for two weeks, and our staff of psychiatrists and social workers is providing intake and diagnostic services, problem focused brief treatment, individual psychotherapy, child and family counseling, substance abuse counseling, marital and couples therapy, medication evaluation and monitoring, and 24-hour mobile emergency services. Evening and same day appointments are available. Anyone interested in scheduling an intake appointment should call Peggy Denness, LICSW, Director of Intake, at (781) 397-2055."

"The Center is reimbursed for services by Medicaid, Medicare, health maintenance organizations, managed care programs, most private insurers, and client fees. Insurance coverage and sliding fees are reviewed with each individual during the intake process...."

Camp High in Reading

"Part boot camp, part high school and part second chance - the Massachusetts National Guard is starting the Minuteman Challenge Academy this fall for teens 16-18 who are high school dropouts but not in serious legal trouble," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"According to admissions director Angie Germano, some 70 youths from across the state, including a handful from area communities, have already signed up."

"Organizers hoped to have a full class of 144 by the time the program kicked off at the National Guard's Camp Curtis Guild in Reading, where the academy is housed."

"Students must volunteer for the program, be drug-free and have no felony convictions or current involvement with the court system."

"The 5-and-a-half month residential academy 'uses a military training model that instills self-discipline, self-esteem, self-confidence, a sense of teamwork and a strong work ethic.'"

"The academy is free to participants, who even receive a nominal stipend ($15 every two weeks) for personal items."

"While at the academy, students take classes in math, science, language arts and social studies, working toward receiving their GED (General Educational Development) diploma.

"The curriculum also consists of: substance abuse and violence prevention classes; career counseling and job skills classes; daily physical training; team-building activities; leadership and adventure training-military discipline, drill and ceremony; and community service."

"A typical day starts at 6 a.m. with physical training, said Germano, followed by a shower, breakfast, six hours of school, homework, and bed at 10 p.m. In between or on the weekends there may be activities, adventure training or a little free time, but the teens are supervised '24-seven' (24 hours a day, seven days a week)," she said....

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867. We welcome student writing.

Elderhostel offers novel cruise class on the QE2

Imagine learning about the history of seafaring, the first transatlantic voyages and the heyday of the luxury ocean liners. And, rather than learning from a textbook or from behind a desk in a crowded classroom, imagine taking it all in while cruising to London or New York aboard a famed ocean liner.

A two-week program sponsored by Elderhostel the Boston-based nonprofit educational organization for adults ages 55 and older in conjunction with South Street Seaport Museum in New York City, offers just that:

an opportunity to live and study aboard the Queen Elizabeth 2 (QE2) during a transatlantic crossing.

The experience is a voyage through history. Starting in New York City, Elderhostel students spend part of the program ashore exploring a course of study on the city immigrant history, thriving culture and ethnic communities and on British maritime history and the legacy of transatlantic crossings.

After three nights in New York, students board the QE2 for a six-night trip across the Atlantic. On board they attend daily lectures while enjoying the hospitality of the luxury liner. The programs conclude in England, with one night in Portsmouth and two nights in London.

In England, students stay in

Middlesex East Sports Athletes & Activities

BY PAUL FEELY

Despite some tough competition, ERIK KALOYANIDES cracked the varsity lineup early in his READING HIGH football career, starting three years on the offensive line during the Rockets' 1995, '96, and '97 seasons.

Entering his second season at offensive tackle at Syracuse University, the 1998 RMHS grad has already shown strong indications he may duplicate that feat at the collegiate Div. 1 level.

Kaloyanides, arguably the top lineman ever to graduate from Reading High, accepted a full-scholarship from the Big East school before graduating in '98. After a redshirt freshman year, he elected to stay at Syracuse's campus, all summer long for team and individual workouts.

A combination of rigorous weightroom work and an injury to a senior lineman allowed Kaloyanides to step into the starting lineup during a couple of preseason scrimmages this year. His play impressed the coaching staff enough to earn him a spot on the team's travel roster, just two players deep at every position.

The starter in front of Kaloyanides, Mark Banowicz, is a fifth-year senior and captain entering his final season with the Orangemen. Should Kaloyanides continue to improve, he could very well take the field as a full-fledged starter in the 2000 season.

"If I stay healthy and do the right thing, maybe I can play three years here," said Kaloyanides. "Right now, if something happened to Mark they'd have the confidence to put me in."

Kaloyanides, a two-time All-League selection and EMass All-Star in high school, knew he had to make a name for himself once he left Reading High. Even the most decorated of high school heroes, after all, are commonplace in Div. 1 football.

"In high school you might be the best player on a team or one of the top five players in the state, but when you get to college and you're one of 20 players who are the top five in the state the competition is never ending," said Kaloyanides.

SPORTS SHORTS

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: Five different men have coached the Boston Celtics to NBA championships. How many can you name? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

On the field hockey roster this Fall at the University of Massachusetts at Lowell are WILMINGTON'S LAUREN HOLLOWAY and PATRICE MENDOZA, along with WOBURN'S STACEY MARO-LDA. All three players are freshman.

WOBURN'S MICHAEL PAIGE and WILMINGTON'S DAN SWEET are both on the roster for the men's soccer team at the University of Massachusetts at Lowell this Fall. Paige is a sophomore forward, while Sweet is a freshman defenseman.

Need some clues to help out with the above-mentioned trivia question? The most recent coach was K.C. Jones.

STONEHAM'S STEVE MAREK, a former Stoneham High School hockey player, has opted to forego his freshman year in college and play a season for the Bridgewater Bandits, a Junior Hockey team.

Lynnfield's Kellie Downs, a senior back, is a co-captain of the women's soccer team at the University of Massachusetts at Lowell this Fall. Last year she recorded one assist. She is joined by Wakefield's Meghan Leary, a freshman midfielder/back.

THE ANNUAL AL DUFF JR. ROAD RACE FOR DARE in Stoneham will take place on September 18. Race events include a 5K road race and a kids' run, and walkers are especially welcome. Prizes are given to the top three winners, both men and women, in open categories and also to the winners in the various age categories. Medallions will be awarded to all participants. Entry fees are $15 and free t-shirts will be given to the first 150 registered runners. Registration may be done in advance at the Runner's Edge, 401 Main Street, Melrose, or at Stoneham Town Hall at 8:30 am on Race Day. The run will begin at 9 am. For more information call 438-0001.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The five men are Jones, Red Auerbach, Bill Russell, Tommy Heinsohn, and Bill Fitch. Congratulations to those that knew the answer, and look next week for another trivia question.

MOVIE REVIEWS

BY PAUL FEELY

"The Blair Witch Project"

MOVIE: "THE BLAIR WITCH PROJECT"
GRADE: *****

Review: There appears that some in Hollywood (or at least in the film-making industry) still have a few original ideas left up their sleeve.

This suspenseful horror movie is the surprise hit of the year, surpassing all expectations, even those of the filmmakers who finished it on a shoe-string budget (estimates report the movie was made for between $50-120,000, while it has already grossed over $100 million at the box office).

The story is told from a first-person point of view, and revolves around three amateur filmmakers who went into a wooded area in Maryland near the town of Blair to make a documentary about a supposed 'witch' that haunts the area, and where several children have been murdered or gone missing over the years. The filmmakers were never heard from again, but their video footage, shot on 8 mm and 16 mm cameras, were found roughly one year after they disappeared.

The movie consist of this footage, and while some of the dialogue parts drag a bit, the terrifying moments come at night, when the woods come alive and you just don't know what is outside the tent.

If you are planning to go camping anytime soon, wait to see this one until you are safe at home again.

SHORTTAKES
MOVIE: "THE SIXTH SENSE"
GRADE: *****

Review: This story about a boy who can see the dead manages to walk the tightrope between fine drama and sentimentality very well, without going overboard in either direction.

Bruce Willis plays an award-winning psychologist who has made many sacrifices over the years to dedicate himself to his work, the top one being his marriage. After being honored by the mayor one night a former patient of his whom he couldn't help breaks into his home and shoots him.

Later that same year Willis' character dedicates himself to helping out a young boy, played by Haley Joel Osment, who says he can see dead people almost everywhere he looks. Willis' character is determined to help the boy, all the while growing more and more distant from his wife.

Willis performance somewhat bland, and one has a hard believing he deals with young children on a regular basis. Osment's performance is amazing for an actor his age, as the real terror and confusion his character feels everytime he sees a ghost is palpable.

A plot twist saves the movie from mediocrity at the end, but you may figure out what's going on very early in the film.

MOVIE: "THE THOMAS CROWN AFFAIR"
GRADE: *****

Review: Director John McTiernan pulls off a well-done remake of this very popular film, which originally starred Steve McQueen and Faye Dunaway.

This time around it's Pierce Brosnan as Thomas Crown, a multimillionaire who appreciates rare works of art, but doesn't enjoy paying for them. He loves the dangerous side of life, and enjoys plotting and then stealing precious works of art from around the world.

Renee Russo stars as an insurance investigator looking into the theft of a rare Monet, which Crown took from the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City. She soon figures out that he is the thief, but also falls for Crown's charm and thrilling lifestyle in the process.

McTiernan and Brosnan pull off two ingenious methods of stealing paintings (and returning them) which should bring a smile to the face of even the most hardened of moviegoers, while Brosnan (as producer) should receive kudos for getting Russo cast as Catherine Banning. She evokes images of Dunaway's portrayal of the character in almost every shot, and has a sexual allure that cannot be denied. Dunaway even has a surprise role as a therapist that Crown sees in the movie.

Fans of the original may be disappointed that the ending has been changed for the happy 1990s, but the average moviegoer will be pleased with this clever, taut adult thriller.

MOVIE: "THE HAUNTING"
GRADE: ****

Review: While not without its merits (mainly top-of-the-line special effects), 'The Haunting' ends up being about as scary as the realization that your student loans must now be paid off.

Liam Neeson stars as a psychologist who decides to bring several easily scared people (including Catherine Zeta-Jones) to spend a night in a New England mansion reputed to be haunted.

What happens next is quite expected, as walls begin to move, pieces of furniture become animated, and spooky sounds abound.

The purpose of this movie was apparently to show the viewer just how far special effects have come, because that's where the majority of the budget, and plot development, was spent. Character development appears to be of minor concern to the filmmakers, and the result is that you end up just not caring too much what happens to the people in the haunted house.

— Tips from the Pros —

Myrna Tichenor, GRI
Realtor/Colonial Manor Realty

When preparing your home for sale, it is always a good idea to "de-personalize." Family portraits, baby pictures, graduation and wedding photos make it "your home." By removing these items prior to marketing, prospective buyers have an easier time imagining themselves living there. It is also very important to unclutter your home. Buyers become distracted when there is too much "stuff" around the house. Take these hints and make every showing count!

Your Home: Q & A

Q: I have leakage in my cellar between the concrete block walls and where the blocks meet the cellar floor. Occasionally water oozes through the cellar floor near the block walls. I have had several quotes on waterproofing, and they all use clay or Bentonite injected into the ground around the exterior of the house. Some of these companies will give a guarantee with the work they do. Is this a good procedure to follow to waterproof? I hope to avoid excavating outside the foundation.

A: We would not recommend soil injection with a "waterproofing" material as a method of coating the foundation walls in order to control a cellar water seepage condition. To the best of our knowledge, it rarely works over the long term. Unless the foundation is exposed, you would not know if there is anything in the ground that prevents full coverage of the wall. As an example, there may be wood debris that was buried by the builder which is covering a portion of the wall. This debris would prevent the waterproofing material from thoroughly covering the exterior foundation surface. Over the years, the wood will rot and expose a portion of the foundation wall through which water can seep. Also, if water is seeping into the house through the floor, waterproofing the walls will not correct the condition.

Since you don't want to resolve this problem by excavating on the outside adjacent to the foundation, you can do it from within your cellar, provided that the floor slab is not integral with the foundation footings. It will involve cutting openings within the floor slab 1 foot deep adjacent to the problem walls, puncturing holes in the bottom blocks, installing 4-inch-diameter perforated drain pipes, gravel and then pouring concrete to match the existing floor. The drain pipe can discharge into the sump pit and be pumped out or, if the topography around the house is sloped, the drain pipe can be pitched and run under the foundation to a low point on the exterior, which provides a free-flowing outlet.

Q: I've heard the term "smart hole" applied to home ventilation systems. Can you tell me what this means?

A: "Smart hole" is an example of where a humorous term replaces one that is less colorful. In this case, ventilation designers and architects sometimes say smart hole instead of fresh air inlet or makeup air inlet. A smart hole is a vent that allows a controlled amount of fresh air to enter a tightly-sealed, energy-efficient building. Why not just open a window? That's not precise enough.

Structures that are very energy efficient exhaust stale indoor air at a controlled rate and balance this with fresh outdoor air. Exhausting indoor air creates a negative pressure in a building (a vacuum), and a smart hole opens when its senses the pressure difference between the inside and outside. Some smart holes open in response to indoor humidity. The smart hole itself is box or pipe shaped. It does not require electrical power to operate and has few moving parts.

Every year, Americans spend hours decorating their homes for the winter holidays, but what about fall? For most, fall lasts all but a few precious months, so making the most out of that time of the year is essential to surviving the cooler winter months.

To capture the spirit of the fall season, imagine the perfect day: falling leaves, carving pumpkins, hay rides and Thanksgiving dinner. Why not bring these images indoors to give your home, whether it's a downtown apartment or a house in the suburbs, a touch of fall magic?

"Creating the look and feel of fall in your home is a beautiful way to bring the season inside," says Joan Serena, senior vice president of marketing at Department 56, a maker of fine collectibles and giftware. "Our new village collection, Seasons Bay, is just one example of fall decorating. Unlike other Department 56 village collections, which focus primarily on the holidays, Seasons Bay resembles a traditional resort town by the bay that can be dressed for each of the four seasons with landscape and figurine accessories."

To get in the decorating mood, try these fun, inexpensive harvest decorating tips:

- Make a harvest wreath from flowers, herbs and shrub branches. Start with a grapevine wreath for a base and weave your natural items with the grapevine.

- Create a beautiful tabletop centerpiece by combining accessories found outdoors with fall trimmings. For example, group small pumpkins, fallen leaves and candles together on a silver platter.

- For a unique display, use accessories like Department 56's lighted porcelain villages. Try a fall resort display with the new Seasons Bay building the "Grandview Shores Hotel" and "Trick or Treat" accessories.

- Visit your local craft store and stock up on Halloween and fall-colored candles and holders. Display your new luminaries alongside the Department 56 animated "Up, Up & Away Witch" Halloween Village accessory.

- Get ready for Halloween by stringing orange party lights in the trees and shrubs surrounding your house. Get the kids involved by having them cut out Halloween shapes from construction paper.

Reverse mortgages help elderly home owners

While politicians and homeowners alike clamor to identify ways in which the issue of property taxes can be resolved, many homeowners have discovered the only solution they will ever need. The solution comes in the form of the FHA program for reverse mortgages. The program allows homeowners 62 years of age and older to draw income from their home equity without requiring repayment for as long as they occupy the home.

Unfortunately the program can't do anything to lower the amount of property taxes which a participant will pay. What it can do however, is provide the necessary funds to pay the taxes when they are due. In most cases the participant can do this by establishing a "line of credit" which will be available to pay the property taxes. This completely eliminates the need for homeowners to make monthly installment payments toward their property taxes.

This "line of credit" is very similar to a "home equity line of credit" which one might get at a bank with two notable exceptions. Unlike a bank line of credit, an individual can draw as much as they wish from the line up to their predetermined limit and never make a monthly payment on the account.

The second difference is that the reverse mortgage line of credit will actually increase in value by about 7% per year. As long as a participant has an available line of credit, the account will continue to grow.

By providing the homeowners with another source of income which they can use to satisfy their property tax requirements participants are able to use their fixed income for living expenses and do not have to worry about setting aside money every month to meet the property tax needs. This translates into extra income to use for the process of living.

Although this program has been very popular nationally, many eligible participants still do not realize that this alternative is available to them. The majority of those who are seeking this program so far have indicated that paying property taxes each year is a major consideration in their decision to look into the program.

The concern which many seniors have is that they will not be put in a position where they must choose between living the quality of life that they are used to by selling the home or lower their quality of life and remain in the home. This is a choice that most older homeowner simply do not want to make. With the reverse mortgage program the participants are able to make their property tax payment without having to use their fixed income resources.

Realtors offer 3 day license renewal course in October

One of the largest education programs ever offered to local real estate professionals will occur when the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR) holds its 75th annual convention and trade show, from October 5 to 7, at the Hynes Convention Center, Boston.

The three-day program will offer over 40 credit hours of instruction for real estate practitioners needing to acquire the 12 course hours of mandatory continuing education to renew their real estate licenses. In all, the convention will offer more than 30 educational sessions for both new licensees and experienced brokers and agents, many of which will focus on the real estate industry's latest and most popular issues and trends.

Special curriculum tracks have been developed which will allow agents to attend several education sessions in one of three specific areas of focus:

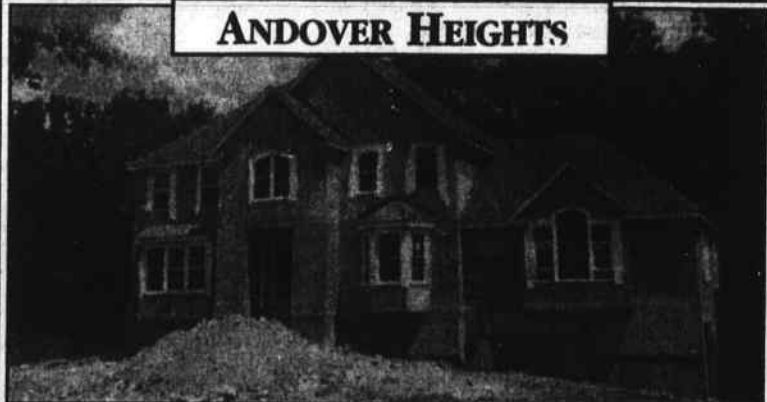

Sales, Management or Technology. Among the topics to be addressed each day will be legal liability issues, including fair housing, landlord-tenant laws, buyer agency and environmental law; and technology oriented subjects such as selling in cyberspace, e-mail marketing, and covering assets with Internet risk management. Additionally, there will be sessions on office management techniques, recruiting, team success and small town investment real estate.

Registration fees for the complete MAR Convention & Trade Show package are $250 for Realtors and $290 for non-member licensees. Single-day and two-day packages also are available. Fees are $125 for Realtors and $135 for non-member licensees registering for one day, $200 for Realtors and $230 for non-Realtors registering for a two-day package.

Paul Revere memorial lecture series in Boston

Co-sponsors Paul Revere Memorial Association and Old South Meeting House present the annual Paul Revere Memorial Lecture Series From Waistcoat to Workdress: Early New England Fashion. Wednesday evenings, starting September 8, from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Old South Meeting House.

This series explores historical clothing styles and trends from Native American dress to 1830s everyday fashion, and admission is free.

September 8, The European Impact on Native American Dress will be explored by Associate Director of the Wampanoag Indian Program at Plimoth Plantation, Linda Combs. Come and find out how 17th century European vogue influenced Native American style around Boston. Actual examples of late 17th century Native American dress will be shown and discussed.

September 15, Ebenezer Storer's Waistcoat and Fashion in Colonial Boston - Who were the fashionistas of 18th century Boston? Colonial Boston does not have a flamboyant fashion reputation, however, there were a few members of upper class society donning the latest fads, such as Ebenezer Storer. Imported fashion will be explored by MFA's Associate Curator of Textiles and Costumes Pamela A. Parmal.

September 22, "The Art of Cutting": The Tailor's Craft in 18th Century New England - For the everyday civilian, ready-to-wear clothing was not an option in the 18th century. Historian and expert tailor, Henry M. Cooke attired as an 18th century tailor demonstrates how men's fashion was created, how it developed over the years, and how he recreates historical clothing now.

September 29, "In My Kitchen Finery": Everyday Clothing of Early 19th Century New Englanders - Dressed in an 1830s workdress and apron, Lynn Z. Basset, Curator of Textiles and Fine Arts at Old Sturbridge Village, discusses everyday 19th century clothing including petticoats, aprons, farmer's frocks, and overalls.

Old South Meeting House is located at 310 Washington Street, on the corner of Washington and Milk Streets, in downtown Boston. This series is sign language interpreted. Old South is wheelchair accessible, and is convenient to all subway lines. For more information, please call (617) 482-6439.
